MACHADO TOLD TO YIELD PRESIDENCY

PUBLISHERS IN NATION OFFER CODE FOR NRA

NEWSPAPERS INSIST ON FREE PRESS, RAISE SCALE

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—An offer to operate under President Roosevelt's banket reemployment agreement—vith a number of modifications—was presented today to the ntional recovery administration by the nation's newspaper publishers.

Shortly aterward, Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial administrator, said at a press conference that he had mt seen the proposed code and did not know when he would consder it.

The agreement was drawn up by a committee representing the American Newspaper Publishers association, the Southern Newspaper Publishers association, the Inland Press association, the New England Press association and other organizaions of publishers of daily newspapers.

A statement by the committee said "if the country at large had kept its employment and payrolls on the level of the newspaper industry there would have been no need for any codes at all."

Support President

The proposed code, said Howard Davis, president of the American Newspaper Publishers association, "provides for a shortening of hours, for minimum wages higher than provided in the blanket agreement, for the maintenance of existing contracts, and the reservaton of the constitutional right of a free press—which cannot be abridged by the application of a licensing system or the use of injunctions to suppress a newspaper."

"In our opinion in the highest possible degree, it supports the president's program," Davis added in a letter to the NRA.

Meanwhile, Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, said at his press conference he had not seem and had not approved the code presented by the publishers.

The administrator added that every time he had seen a previous proposed code presented by the spokesmen for the publishers he had rejected it as unsatisfactory and that he knew nothing about whether the one submitted today remedied the defects to which he objected.

Johnson said he did not know when he would consider it.

The proposed agreement, which would go into effect August 31 or sooner if approved by the president, would put the publishers in line with other industries in barring child labor. It would not, however, prevent the use of minors for newspaper delivery when their hours of work would not conflict with schoo attendance.

It also would except "professional persons' or those in managerial, supervisory or executive capacity who receive more than $35 a week. Editors and reporters were excepted as members of a profession.

Exceptions to the president's blanket code were made where "restrictions of hours of highly skilled workers on continuous processes would unavoidabl reduce production."

However, in such cases time and one-third would be paid for overtime except as provided i individual labor contracts.

Beer Investigator Is Given Dismissal

Detroit, Aug. 8 (AP)—The state liquor commission Tuesday dismissed Emmanuel Demerro as Oakland county investigator for the commission, although it praised his services. The explanation given in a statement accompanying the announcement was that Demerro's value as an investigator had been impaired by publicity given his controversy, following the resignation of Mrs. Robert E. O'Brien, of Birmingham, as a member of the commission.

WAVE DRAGS 100 ORPHANS IN SEA

One Boy Drowned; 6 Missing; 9 Treated for Submersion

New York, Aug. 8. (AP)—A huge wave tore away part of a sandbar where about 100 orphans were holding a picnic today, dragged many of them into the sea off Edgemere, L. I., and drowned a 10-year-old boy. Six others were missing.

The children were from the Pride of Judea orphans home of Brooklyn. Nine of them, pulled out of the surf by volunteers, police emergency crews and life guards, were treated for submersion.

The dead boy was Raymond Evans, 10. Those missing, Benjamin Haputman, Meyer Posalki, Leonard Shavter, Robert Rothstein, William Feltman and Asher Basses, ranged in age from 10 to 15.

Officials at the orphanage said a checkup showed only the one boy had been drowned, but added they did not yet have a complete list of those who had gone on the picnic.

Treated on Beach

Police said they were not certain whether any of the children unaccounted for had drowned, or had managed to reach the beach safely and mingled with the crowds in the excitement.

First news of the tragedy brought crews of police with inhalators and other life saving equipment. As the children were dragged from the surf they were treated on the beach. Only young Evans failed to respond to treatment, and police said they were certain the others treated would survive.

Including Evans, nine in all were pulled out by the hastily mobilized rescuers.

The scene of the freak wave was a circular-shaped bar of sand situated about 300 yards off Edgemere near Far Rockaway, north of Coney Island. The bar is easily reached at low tide, and most of the time the "island" is high and dry.

Adult bathers who saw the wave come up suddenly out of a quiet sea, threw themselves into the water after the struggling children, and were dragged out by the terrific undertow which followed the receding wave.

Striking Farmers Fire At Troopers

Little Falls, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—Striking milk farmers tonight fired a fusillade of rifle shots from ambush, narrowly missing two state troopers who were part of a convoy accompanying eight large tank trucks of milk. More than a dozen shots were fired from the bushes.

The 28 troopers, under command of Lieut. J. A. Morrisey of Troop D, returned the fire. Observers estimated that more than 300 rounds were fired into the undergrowth along the highways. No one was hit, however.

This is the second time milk trucks have been fired upon during the milk strike. Tonight's shooting occurred at East Creek, a quarter of a mile west of the Herkimer Montgomery county line.

No trace of the farmers could be found in the bushes.

Ace Hudkins Shows Steady Improvement

Los Angeles, Aug. 8 (AP)—Ace Hudkins, wounded twice in a cafe disagreement early Sunday, was improving steadily but still was in a critical condition, Dr. P. S. O'Reilly, his physician, said tonight.

The pugilist has received one blood transfusion since an operation was performed to remove bullets from his right lung and the pelvis. A second transfusion was planned for tomorrow.

PENNSYLVANIA MINERS SWING BACK TO JOBS

ROOSEVELT APPEAL GETS RESULTS AS STRIKE ENDS

BY MARBEN GRAHAM
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 8 (AP)—An appeal from President Roosevelt, carried to the heart of the turbulent strike area, today swung western Pennsylvania's soft coal workers into the back-to-the-mines movement.

Stirred to enthusiasm as Edward F. McGrady, labor advisor of the N. R. A., delivered the president's message, more than 100 leaders of union locals decided by a unanimous, rising vote to return to work.

The leaders quickly transmitted their decision to the rank and file of the strikers and within a few hours local after local enthusiastically voted to resume work tomorrow under the Roosevelt truce.

Acceptance of the armistice brings to an end the walkout which began two weeks ago today in the Fayette county mines of the H. C. Frick Coke company with a demand for operator recognition of the United Mine Workers of America.

With these locals—all in district No. 4, scene of violence in which one striker was shot to death and more than a score wounded—stepping into line, union leaders said the resumption of operations will be general throughout the bituminous coal fields.

Greeted With Cheers

Under the leadership of Martin Ryan, president of Local No. 3 in the district, these chiefs previously refused to accept the truce arranged by President Roosevelt, Governor Gifford Pinchot, United Mine Workers' national leaders and the operators and advised their men not to go back into the pits.

Facing these recalcitrant local leaders, McGrady, who had flown

NEW TRIAL FOR LIFERS SOUGHT

Kaplan Tries to Prove Purple Gangsters Are Innocent

Detroit, Aug. 8 (AP)—Presenting more than a score of affidavits, Fred G. Kaplan, New York attorney, opened in recorder's court Tuesday another attempt to obtain a new trial for Ray Bernstein, Irving Milberg and Harry Keywell, now serving life sentences for the Collingwood manor slayings here two years ago.

Although Prosecutor Harry S. Toy yesterday obtained a one day postponement of the hearing which is on a petition for permission to file a motion for a new trial, the "matter of the utmost importance to the state," which he said he hoped to lay before Judge Donald Van Zile in recorder's court was not disclosed today.

"Siege of Torture"

Today's session was taken up with Kaplan's discourse on several of the affidavits. At one time, while he was endeavoring to emphasize the importance of an affidavit purporting to come from Solly Levine, whose testimony as an eye witness, was largely responsible for the conviction of the three members of the Purple gang, the court interrupted to observe that it appeared strange Levine could not be located.

"I think he can be made available if there is a new trial," Keplan said.

"He ought to know," Prosecutor Toy interjected. Toy has been searching for Levine for more than a year without success.

The affidavit attributed to Levine recants the story he told at the time of the trial. It also charges Levine was subjected to a "siege of torture" by the police and that the police "thrust the names of the three defendants on him."

Another affidavit attributed to a man who occupied a cell next to Levine's shortly after the killing, alleged that Levine told the affiant the police tried to make him implicate some of the other Purple gangsters, and also that Levine was "beaten and brutalized" by the police.

Other affidavits were presented through which Kaplan sought to show that Bernstein and Keywell put in a long distance telephone call to a bookmaker to place a bet at the time of the slayings and that Milberg was at home asleep at the same hour.

Parochial Schools in Peninsula Lack Funds for Opening

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 8 (AP)—Reports that upper peninsula parochial schools may be unable to open, and a threat of additional drains on state welfare funds, today faced officials who are struggling to solve the problems of the state's financial situation.

Dr. Paul F. Voelker, superintendent of public instruction, told the state administrative board he has been reliably informed that parishioners will be unable to support nearly a score of the parochial schools in upper peninsula counties. He said if these schools cannot open, several thousand pupils will be added to the public school burden. Voelker said efforts are being made to secure fuel for the institutions from a foundation. He believed that inasmuch as salaries are not required they might be able to operate if the heating bill is met.

Relief Burden Problem

The board was unable to take any action, but agreed, unofficially, that should any funds be left from a $12,000,000 state welfare appropriation they would be diverted to school purposes. Hope that funds from this source would be available, however, were feeble. Governor Comstock received word from Washington that hereafter the state must raise at least two thirds of its welfare fund. A $12,000,000 appropriation from sales tax revenues was made by the legislature in anticipation of a total of $36,000,000 direct welfare program with the federal government supplying whatever was necessary.

A telegram from Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief director, today ruled that hereafter the government will advance welfare funds only if the communities and the state can match it two for one. Hopkins advised that $1,500,000 for past due requirements has been released. From now on, however, the new rule will be effective, and the August request for $2,200,000 for Michigan apportionment may be materially reduced.

"It will be impossible for the communities to meet the demands of the government,' the governor said. "Our set-up was made with the belief that the counties would pay one third if they could, the state one third and the federal government the balance. This was understood in Washington. Many counties have exhausted their welfare resources entirely. They cannot match, in any degree, federal grants."

The governor told the board that unless the ruling is changed the state welfare appropriation will be far from enough, and there will be no balance for school aid. Voelker suggested the governor might call a special session of the legislature in October. The governor stated he prefers to wait until the sales tax yield has been determined definitely. He declared action will be taken soon enough to save the school system. It is the governor's intention to call an extra session next January or February unless developments make one advisable sooner.

PRESIDENT AND ADVISORS MEET

Economic Situation Here and Abroad Fully Canvassed

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—Carefully watching the domestic and world campaign for higher prices and wages, President Roosevelt canvassed the whole economic situation today with his experts and arranged for a visit tomorrow with his secretary of the treasury, William H. Woodin.

Out of the significant round of meetings at the summer White House came not the slightest hint of any change in policy or any drastic new steps to force better times beyond their present pace.

The quietly working experts were just as silent as ever. They include besides James Warburg, special financial advisor to the London economic conference delegation; Professors James Rogers of Yale and George Warren of Cornell.

Their three hour visit with Mr. Roosevelt in the president's home on the banks of the Hudson river was described officially as a canvass of the whole economic situation both at home and abroad.

No Change in Policy

Just as authoritatively it was stated there had been no discussion of stabilization of the dollar or of inflation. Consequently, it was made plain that nothing specific had been taken up or decided.

Mr. Roosevelt who had been given full command over inflation and control of prices and industry, appeared to be surveying the situ-

Newspaper Code Made Flexible by Necessity

Washington, Aug. 8. (AP)—The committee of newspaper publishers which drew up the proposed code of operation submitted to the National Recovery Administration today issued the following statement:

A code on behalf of newspaper publishers, in full sympathy with the purposes of the National Industrial Recovery Act, adjusting wages and hours of employment, was submitted to the NRA today.

This code is the result of deliberations consuming more than three weeks by a committee of 25 publishers, representing the American Newspaper Publishers association, the Southern Newspaper Publishers association, the Inland Press association, the New England Press association and other organizations of publishers of daily newspapers.

It was the unanimous opinion of the full committee that no sound ground for objection could be offered to the code as prepared.

Conditions Different

Newspapers are not a national industry; they are, on the contrary, by nature and necessity, local in their scope. Conditions in each locality control and regulate such fundamental factors as number of editions, time of publication, method of distribution, etc. It is obvious, for example, that costs in Salem, Oregon, can have little or no effect on the cost of publishing a paper in New York.

With nearly 2,000 daily newspapers in the United States, having circulations ranging from

BUYING POWER SOARING WITH "BLUE EAGLE"

MILLIONS WILL BE UNDER CODES IN TWO WEEKS

BY JAMES P. SELVAGE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—The blanketing within the next two weeks of millions of wage earners under temporary codes to raise their wages was envisioned tonight by Hugh S. Johnson as a major thrust toward increased puchasing power.

Virtually the entire machinery of the National Recovery Administration has been directed by Johnson, it chief, toward this objective, and scores of agreements are on the point of promulgation.

Under this plan the codes of operation will take their places alongside others for retailers, grocers and various industrials already under temporary agreements pending adoption of permanent ones.

Guard Against Abuse

The idea, as described by officials, is to step the nation's buying power up immediately and then turn to the formulation of the final codes of fair competition which require public hearings and lengthy study.

Paralleling this dominant move to swing reemployment definitely upward, Johnson was mobilizing his enforcement machinery to make sure that blue eagles of the NRA are not displayed by business houses failing to comply with the provisions of the agreements.

Housewives and wage-earners over the entire country were being organized for house to house and store to store canvasses to insure against infractions of codes and to prevail upon buyers to patronize only blue eagle businesses.

Miss Mary Hughes, director of the women's section of the emergency re-employment campaign, announced completion of an organization in 48 states to carry on the educational and "policing" work.

CRACKUP BALKS OCEANIC FLIGHT

Adamowicz Brothers Had Planned Sea Jaunt to Poland

Harbor Grace, N. F., Aug. 8 (AP)—Struck by a heavy gust of wind, the "White Eagle," monoplane of the Polish-American fliers, Benjamine and Joseph Adamowicz, upset here this afternoon as it came to a landing after a "test" flight from New York.

The Adamowicz brothers and their companion and assistant pilot, Emil Birgen, suffered a shaking up in the crash which did much damage to the under carriage of the plane.

A cut on the arm suffered by Joseph Adamowicz required several stitches.

The brothers planned a hop to their native land, Poland, in the plane which formerly was known as "The Liberty." It was the same craft in which Otto Hillig and Holger Noiriis flew to Denmark two years ago.

Landed With Wind

The "White Eagle" took off from Floyd Bennett field in New York at 5:06 a. m. (E. S. T.) with a gasoline supply of 500 gallons. It landed here at 2:10 p. m. (E. S. T.).

As the plane came out a bright southwest sky it appeared as if it would land against the wind but after coming down with the wind the craft suddenly swerved while traveling on the ground at a good rate of speed. It came to a halt with a crash in a clump of bushes.

A crowd at the airport rushed to the aid of the fliers and hurriedly took them from the plane. At first it was believed they were seriously injured but a quick examination disclosed that except for the cut on Joseph's arm they were unhurt.

Birgen said he had been advised to bring the plane down with the wind because of a four per cent slope on the airport surface.

Both landing wheels were ripped off and one was demolished. The propeller was badly damaged.

After going to a nearby surgery for treatment, Joseph returned to the airport where with Benjamin and Birgen, he surveyed the damage to the plane.

Visibly disturbed by the turn of affairs, the brothers said they had no difinite plans regarding the crossing of the Atlantic.

The Adamowicz brothers live in Brooklyn, N. Y., and had prepared for the flight at Floyd Bennett field for several days.

FOREST FIRES UNDER CONTROL

Wind Dies Down, Aiding Fighters; Hazard is Still Great

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 8 (AP)—Forest fire conditions in the upper peninsula were reported to be much improved tonight by conservation officers, who said that the situation was well in hand. Many blazes were out or nearly out, while others were practically under control.

Only three new fires were reported in Marquette county today and these were under control tonight. Some signs of fresh smoke were seen from the fire towers, but in most cases it was due to back-firing. The larger fires were confined to the area in which they had been burning.

Of the total of 37 brush, slashing and grass blazes reported Sunday and Monday throughout the county, only 10 were still burning today and crews of fire fighters were keeping these under check.

Flames Checked

No fires were reported to be breaking out of boundaries today and the general condition was much better than it had been for several days. Conditions in the woods and brush, however, still remain hazardous because of the lack of rain. The wind died down today and aided the fighters.

In the Sand river district fire there were 12 miles of lines Monday and during Monday night the flames were driven by a high wind. At one time the blaze leaped across the fire line and trapped eight men and there was much difficulty getting them out of danger. Today the men resorted to back-firing and were successful in keeping the flames well in check.

Luce, Mackinaw, Chippewa and Alger counties were the only ones in the upper peninsula where the fire situation is not serious and there are few, if any, fires in these districts, according to William A. Bergin, chief of state conservation forces in the upper peninsula.

Campaign Against Austria By German Officials Halted

Paris, Aug. 8 (AP)—The German government, it was said in authoritative quarters today, has privately assured France, Great Britain and Italy with regard to alleged improper activities toward Austria that Germany "didn't do it, but won't do it again."

The belief was expressed by government officials that the Nazi campaign against the Austrian government had been halted by the protests made to Berlin under the four-power peace pact.

The communique issued by Berlin officials last night, apparently repelling the representations by Great Britain and France was described as truculent for purposes of home consumption in Germany.

CUBAN LEADER REJECTS PLAN OF U. S. ENVOY

MEDIATION NOT YET ENDED, WELLES REPORTS

BY JOHN P. McNIGHT
(Associated Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright 1933, By The Associated Press)

Havana, Aug. 8 (AP)—Sumner Welles, United States ambassador, it was confirmed from a high source, told President Gerardo Machado today that he must ask congress for a leave of absence, if Cuba's political problems are to be settled.

The government appeared ready to resist.

Machado announced a short time before: "I am and I continue being president of Cuba in the plentitude of all my constitutional prerogatives, of which I may not cede the smallest part without betraying the confidence reposed in me by the Cuban people."

The president's statement came a short time after he had held an interview with Welles. The American envoy declared as he left the presidential palace that "mediation is not ended." The ambassador had been engaged for some time in an attempt to mediate the Cuban political turmoil.

Welles' Formula

A formula presented by Welles to the president, it was revealed, embodied these points:

That Machado immediately name a secretary of state acceptable to all political factions. (The Cuban constitution provides for the succession of the secretary of state to the presidency in the event that office becomes vacant.)

That thereafter Machado must ask congress for an indefinite leave of absence. With that request granted, the new secretary of state would succeed to the presidency and would immediately appoint a national cabinet representative of all political factions in the island.

Constitutional reforms worked out by opposition delegates and the three political parties in collaboration with Welles, which provide for the restoration of the office of vice president abolished by the 1928 constitutional reform, then would be submitted to congress.

Once congress had voted the reform they would be submitted to a constitutional convention which, under the constitution, must follow the action of congress within six months. Delegates to the convention would be chosen at elections supervised by the acting president.

The vice presidential office then would be filled either by congress or by the supreme court.

The strikes of transport and other workers, which have spread rapidly in Havana and in other parts of the island during the past week, may be broken tomorrow, the president asserted.

"The transportation strike and other similar ones," said the president who has long been the storm center of Cuban political turmoil, "are of labor character and in an interview held today in the palace

Bits of Cheer in Business

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (AP)—Twenty-six thousand workers employed by the Full Fashioned Hosiery manufacturers of America, Inc., were today voted a voluntary increase in piecework and hourly rates by the corporation's board. This follows similar action taken by 108 Full Fashioned Hosiery mills in eastern Pennsylvania and southern New Jersey.

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Production of steel ingots in July totaled 3,203,810 tons, the highest for any month since June 1920, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported today. This figure compared with 2,597,517 tons in June and 806,722 tons in July last year.

Chicago, Aug. 8 (AP)—Business failures held to a low level last week, numbering 352, as compared with 670 in the corresponding week a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., said today.

Waltham, Mass., Aug. 8 (AP)—A minimum wage increase of 20 per cent to more than 1,500 employes was announced today by the Waltham Watch Company. An additional increase will be made in cases where the 20 per cent does not bring the wage up to the $14 minimum provided in the industrial recovery program.

Chicago, Aug. 8 (AP)—Ten thousand people a day were brought to Chicago last week end by the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, R. Thompson, traffic manager announced today. It was the largest three day non-holiday week end in several years, Thompson said.

NRA CODE FOR CITIES FAVORED

Manistique Represented at Meeting Tuesday In Holland

Holland, Mich., Aug. 8 (AP)—Executives of 53 Michigan municipalities went on record here today as urging that cities and villages whose budgets will permit, adopt the president's work-wage code.

A resolution to that effect was concurred in by 120 city and village officials, at a re-employment conference called by Mayor Nicodemus Bosch, of Holland, to agree on a unified plan of action.

The resolution stated in the preamble that municipalities are not "technically" obligated to subscribe to the national recovery act code, but nevertheless placed the officials on record as endorsing the program of increasing wages and making more jobs. Continuing, it said: "We urge all municipalities in the state of Michigan which are in a financial position to do so, to adopt and enforce a policy in accord with the letter and spirit of N. R. A."

Manistique Represented

Prior to adoption of the resolution, Prof. William Haber, of East Lansing, representative of the national welfare committee, explained the purpose and procedure of the N. R. A. drive to place industry under codes. George Lusk, of Ann Arbor, president of the Michigan Municipal league, urged the assembly to "endorse this worthy cause."

Cities represented, beside Holland, included: Grand Rapids, East Grand Rapids, Lansing, East Lansing, Pontiac, Port Huron, Saginaw, Bay City, Muskegon, Muskegon Heights, Battle Creek, Flint, Benton Harbor, Kalamazoo, Ecorse, Lincoln Park, Traverse City, Adrian, Marshall, Greenville, Royal Oak, Birmingham, Hillsdale, Monroe, Grand Haven, Charlotte, Otsego, Roseville, Zeeland, Belding, Lapeer, Three Rivers, Howell, Manistique, Alpena, Albion, Allegan, St. Johns, Wyandotte, Owosso, Midland, Coldwater, Alma, Ypsilanti, Cadillac, Manistee, Big Rapids, Howell, Ishpeming, Ferndale, St. Joseph and Mt. outside employes) would be 40 hours. The maximum week for any factory, mechanical worker or artisan would be 40 hours, but with the right to work a 44 hour week within any six months period during the tenure of the agreement. For both classes exception was made to cover existing contracts.

The minimum wage for accounting, clerical, office, service or sales employes, factory, mechanical worker or artisan was fixed on a population basis.

For the office workers in cities of more than 500,000 population the minimum wage would be $15; in cities between 250,000 and 500,000, $14.50; 2,500 to 250,000, $14; and in towns of less than 2,500 population not less than $12. These wage scales also would apply to the immediate trade areas of such cities.

For the mechanical department, including the artisan, the hourly rate of wage would be not less than that which prevailed in his community on July 15, 1929 for the same work. This, the publishers unofficially explained, was a substantial increase for this type of work over the 40 cent an hour minimum prescribed in the president's blanket code.

The population would be based on the 1930 census.

The publishers proposed that employes have the right to organize and bargain collectively, but that "no employe and no one seeking employment shall be required to join any company union or to refrain from joining, organizing, or assisting a labor organization of his own choosing."

The publishers made the reservation that nothing contained in the code would require them to violate any contract with employes or groups of employes.

Aimee and Husband Meet In Restaurant

Los Angeles, Aug. 8 (AP)—Chatting amiably over their salad bowl in a fashionable downtown cafe, Aimee Semple McPherson and her estranged husband, David L. Hutton, Jr., met today for the first time since the vaudeville baritone filed his divorce action against the evangelist.

They came face to face in a meeting arranged by mutual friends in a private dining room and for several hours discussed their mutual problems quietly. Friends said they were well pleased with the results of the meeting.

The reunion was halted temporarily to allow Hutton to dash to a downtown theater for his vaudeville act.

As soon as he finished his act, Hutton hailed a taxicab and rejoined Sister Aimee.

"The laborers have protested to me energetically the perverse form in which they were provoked by elements foreign to them in yesterday's tumults which were rapidly repressed by the police of the city without the army's having to fire a single shot."

The president declared that he was disposed to reach an agreement with his political adversaries and that even today he had sent to congress a recommendation for immediate approval of the electoral reforms advised by Professor Howard Lee McBain of Columbia university.

"I am confident," the president's statement added, "that the people of the United States will understand that I am watching over peace and order in Cuba and defending against revolution and anarchy the independence, the sovereignty and the institutions of a republic that this same people of the United States nobly aided us to form."

The latest count of the results of yesterday's street firing, made by visits to the morgue and hospitals, showed 21 dead and 146 wounded. This did not include persons treated in their own homes.

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—Watching anxiously the turbulent conditions in Cuba, the state department tonight awaited word that a solution of the disturbances had been reached.

Official comment was lacking, but the opinion was expressed by some observers that there could be no lasting peace in the republic while President Machada remained in power.

Hope was expressed that the United States would not need again to send armed forces there to restore order.

Department officials had President Roosevelt's word for it that such intervention, which would be the second time in more than two decades, would be avoided if possible.

But signs that Machado wished to rebel against the mediation of Ambassador Sumner Welles, in whose actions complete presidential confidence has been expressed, were considered far from favorable to a peaceful solution of the problem.

From all opposition sources came a demand that Machado step down. State department spokesmen denied that this government had demanded Machado's retirement. They also declined to discuss what would happen if Machado succeeded in holding on to his post.

PRESIDENT AND ADVISORS MEET

ation. But his closest advisors tonight were confident that he was contemplating no change in policy; rather keeping the closest contact.

Of course, the president is ready to act to keep his drive for price raising and better wages in progress if it is necessary. He is making sure that his domestic campaign is not upset by the international situation. Mr. Warburg was on the "inside" of this during his work at the London parley.

It was regarded as significant that Rogers and Warren came here from separate points. Their joint study in Washington of the whole fiscal setup seemingly has been temporarily completed. Inasmuch as they departed tonight for their respective homes, apparently no new and specific study has been ordered.

It is understood Warren is leaving immediately for Europe. Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, is again enroute here.

FOREST FIRES UNDER CONTROL

square mile in extent in spite of the efforts of 44 boy scouts and two fire crews of ten men each.

A northwest wind tonight was driving the flames toward the summer home of Former Governor Chase S. Osborn on Duck Island in Lake George, just off Sugar Island. It was former Governor Osborn who gave the forest preserve to the university some years ago.

WISCONSIN HARD HIT

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 8 (AP)—With thousands of acres of cut over land and slashings already laid waste, forest fires in northern Wisconsin burned on with increasing intensity today.

Wardens, farmers and men from federal conservation camps were doggedly fighting to check the flames, but back firing and trenching were futile in the face of strong winds and the tinderlike grass and branches.

There was no hint of rain, desperately needed for several weeks.

garnered some 300 votes for president last November on a 'one-man' ticket, will be arraigned tomorrow.

The damage set forth in the indictment totaled $687, mainly to the draperies on the trading floor of the exchange. The explosion sent traders running into Wall and Broad streets, tears streaming from their eyes.

ITALIAN FLIERS REACH AZORES

Balbo Armada Plans to Leave for Lisbon This Morning

Horta, Azores, Aug. 8, (AP)—The Italian trans-Atlantic squadron of 24 seaplanes arrived in the Azores late today from Shoal Harbor, Nfld., successfully completing the 1,500 mile flight which is the longest stage on the homeward journey.

General Italo Balbo, the leader, descended with 15 ships at Ponta Delgada while nine planes under the immediate direction of General Pellegrini came down to the water in Horta Harbor.

A discharge of rockets and the shriek of sirens greeted the group of nine as it arrived here to be welcomed by thousands of sightseers.

The breakwater and the quay were covered with heaps of blue hydrangeas for the reception.

The silvered seaplanes flew in perfect formation to their landing places, presenting an impressive sight as they reflected the brilliant sunshine. With military precision they taxied up to their buoys which had been placed by the Italian mother ship Citta Di Catania.

Splendid Journey

Climbing out of his seaplane, General Pellegrini showed no signs of weariness from the long ocean flight. He received an enthusiastic ovation from the waiting crowd and said of today's exploit:

"It was a splendid journey. The sky was practically without clouds all the way from the immediate vicinity of Newfoundland. All the machines gave a good performance.

"I am much impressed by the reception given us at Horta and I regret that our stay must be short. Our machines already are being refueled preparatory to the takeoff for Lisbon at dawn tomorrow. We intend to join up with the rest of the armada when we pass over San Miguel."

The Balbo armada left Shoal Harbor, Nfld., at 2:45 a. m. eastern standard time today, the flagship of the leader roaring aloft in advance for the long ocean hop to the Azores. Unfavorable weather conditions had held the squadron at Shoal Harbor since July 26 when they arrived there from Shediac, N. B., and New York after a visit to the Chicago exposition.

General Balbo expected to halt only for a short time in the Azores before pressing on to Lisbon and thence to Orbetello, Italy. On arrival home the leader will be honored with the title of air marshall while his 95 fliers will be given tokens of their record making mass flight.

PENNSYLVANIA MINERS SWING BACK TO JOBS

to Uniontown from Washington, said:

"I am here, acting for the president of the United States and asking you to go back to work."

Prolonged cheers greeted the president's name—cheers that grew in volume as McGrady asserted:

"We propose to see that the agreement which was entered into between your organization, the operators and the president is carried out.

"I pledge you that any grievances that may arise will be handled promptly and that we will appoint a committee to rectify any wrongs."

Asserting that the president "has called every employer and every worker to the colors in this war against depression," the N. R. A. mediator pointed out that today's meeting was a forerunner to the hearings on the bituminous coal code which begin tomorrow in Washington.

"This (the coal code hearing) is the first time in the history of the nation that the operators have agreed to talk in the open about raising your wages and shortening your working hours," McGrady said.

"In the name of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, I ask you to return to work."

The cheers that arose in the hall spread to a crowd of several hundred persons gathered in the street outside the building.

Youthful America Asked To Line Up With NRA Campaign

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Youthful America, regardless of party affiliation, was asked tonight by Postmaster General Farley to line up behind President Roosevelt's recovery effort.

"No attempt is being made to set up a super-government over business or industry," Farley said in an address, "but simply to give them the opportunity to govern themselves under the principles and purposes of the recovery program.

"As a matter of fact, the national recovery act is a new declaration of independence for business to manage its own affairs under ethical codes, to promote social justice between employer and employee and to open up new fields for initiative and efficiency.

"It is a new charter of rights and protection to labor and a new guarantee of decent living conditions in America."

NEWSPAPERS IN COUNTRY NEED FLEXIBLE CODE

about 1,000 copies daily to over 1,000,000 daily, the problem of preparing a code which in its main features, would be equitable to all was necessarily a difficult and complicated one.

For this reason while minimum wages and maximum hours are proposed, provision was made for flexibility in communities where there might be a shortage of competent labor.

The allegation is constantly made that this or that industry is a peculiar one, and while daily newspapers have no desire to set up for themselves any threadbare argument, it is proper to call attention to these facts.

In NRA Bulletin No. 2, Paragraph 7, Section A, it is stated:

"An average work week should be designed as far as possible to provide for such a spread of employment as will provide work so far as practical, for employees normally attached to the particular industry."

This desired end has been substantially maintained by daily newspapers.

Payrolls Kept High

If the country at large had kept its employment and payrolls on the level of the newspaper industry, there would have been no need for any codes at all.

Newspaper publishers do not claim that this is due to any especial patriotism on their part, but solely because a daily newspaper, by its very nature, is under the compulsion of continuous production.

A daily newspaper cannot materially reduce its forces or shut down its plant in keeping with reduced revenues. The very depression, uncertainty and ferment which hinder business and reduce employment throws in increased demand upon newspapers to secure and distribute the news.

There is no major business activity in the United States which operates throughout on higher wage scales or whose payrolls represent so large a proportion of cost of production. Wages alone account for approximately 50 per cent of the total cost of daily newspaper production.

Freedom of Press

Now, as to the constitutional aspects of this question, the National Industrial Recovery Act provides that those subject to its provisions may be licensed and also authorizes the use of injunction to restrain violations. With the authority to license, there is also the power to deny, suspend and revoke licenses.

These provisions cannot be applied to newspapers because of the specific prohibition in the first amendment to the constitution of the United States against the enactment by congress of any law abridging the freedom of the press.

This committee is not authorized to express any decision for individual newspapers and every publisher will, as of right, decide for himself what course he will pursue in this instance. Certain considerations, however, must be faced.

First, under a government by the people, and above all in times of doubt and distress, no single privilege is as essential to the preservation of free institutions as a free press.

Second, no press can be free if it may be compelled to operate under a license or be subject to injunction. It does not matter how generous or broad the terms of that license may be, nor with what honesty of purpose and solemnity of promise the intention is declared to leave each newspaper full liberty of expression, the fact remains that on the day on which the press submits to a license it will have abdicated its position and abandoned its trust.

Once let the principle of licenses be established and a way will be opened that cannot be closed for the "revocation of such licenses for the violation of the terms or conditions thereof."

The above statement is made so that all may know of the difficulties confronting newspaper publishers and of their desire to cooperate with the president in his program for recovery.

DOYLE ATTACKS NRA SHIRKERS

Menominee City Attorney Says Many Are Evading Code

Menominee, Aug. 8 (Special)—Employers in Menominee are not living up to the spirit of the president's agreement under the National Recovery Act, Thurman B. Doyle, city attorney, declared in an address last night before the Menominee Federal Labor Union in the association's hall on North Broadway. Upwards of 400 persons were present at the meeting.

"While some of the employers are shortening hours, and, in some cases paying the minimum wage scale," Mr. Doyle said, "they are not increasing the number of employes, by which it was hoped to help the general situation."

Mr. Doyle attacked the selection of the Menominee N. R. A. committee as comprising a personnel "appointed to thwart the wishes of the national administration." All classes are not represented on it, he said.

He announced that John H. Dunlap, who was named to represent labor on the committee, had resigned as soon as he had been apprised of his selection.

"Mr. Dunlap told me," Mr. Doyle said, "that he was not consulted as to his accepting a place on the committee. He said as soon as he learned of it, through the newspapers, he immediately tendered his resignation because he felt he could not, in justice, represent labor, not being fully aware of labor's various problems."

Mr. Doyle read to his audience a copy of a telegram he dispatched to General Hugh S. Johnson, in Washington relative to the appointment of the Menominee committee.

"As one in entire agreement with the president's program," the telegram said, "I protest against the committee appointed by the local Chamber of Commerce as being unrepresentative and not in sympathy with either the letter or the spirit of the president's program and ask that all classes be represented on such committee instead of those interested as employers of labor only."

Reviewing the National Recovery Act, Mr. Doyle laid special emphasis on Section seven which provides for the right of collective bargaining among labor and declared that the workers had a full, and legal right to organize into a union.

He stressed a statement recently issued by General Johnson urging support of firms displaying the "Blue Eagle."

"Whether it is boycott or not," Mr. Doyle declared, "those who want to see this recovery program go through should only patronize those places that are displaying the 'Blue Eagle' insignia."

31,209 Employers Join In Movement

Detroit, Aug. 8 (AP)—Signed pledges of cooperation with President Roosevelt's re-employment program received today at the local branch of the department of commerce brought to 31,209 the number of Michigan employers who have indicated their intention of aiding in the movement. The pledges are divided 12,998 from Detroit and 18,211 from the state outside Detroit.

The signers thus far represent employers of 280,857 wage earners.

Included among the pledges received today was one from the Michigan liquor commission, Lansing, which although not required to come under code stipulations volunteered its cooperation. The commission's signed agreement represents the employment of 200 persons.

William Green of the American Federation of Labor told newspapermen he would ask all state and city branches of his organization to aid in supervising operation of the codes.

Reports of violations would be cleared through state and city headquarters to the labor federation's headquarters here and then turned over to the recovery administration should local efforts to mend the difficulties fail.

Green said instruction would go out to the organization's entire membership not to accept the blue eagle alone as evidence of cooperation on the part of business houses but to make inquiries whether acceptance of the agreement had actually been followed by higher wages and increased employment.

Into the pile of codes already under consideration by the administration came another today from the American Newspaper Publishers association proposing shortened hours and minimum wages.

Representatives of the National Restaurant Association conferred during the day with Thomas S. Hammond, executive director of the emergency re-employment campaign, and planned soon to submit a code with the request for temporary effectiveness of its wage and hour provisions.

The druggists also had a code pending, providing different wages and hours for attendants handling medicine, foods and other merchandise. Neither the newspaper, drug nor restaurant codes had been taken before General Johnson where final approval must be given.

Only one public hearing was in progress and controversial phases were lifted from that with appointment of a special committee to reconcile differences between lime manufacturers and the administration on wages and hours.

MANY SCHOOLS LACKING FUNDS

paign intended to secure a $15,000,000 appropriation for school aid through a special legislative session before the approaching school year begins.

In a lengthy statement, the committee, consisting of one member from each congressional district, said assurance of such an appropriation "at once" is necessary "if the educational structure is not to collapse."

Governor Comstock previously had stated that he did not believe a special session of the legislature would be necessary until the first of the year.

ARIZONA ADDED IN WET COLUMN

Dry Leaders Concede the State; First Returns Indicate Trend

BULLETIN

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 8 (AP)—Returns tonight from 302 out of 444 precincts in Arizona gave:

For repeal—28,211.
Against repeal—8,752.

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 8 (AP)—Gov. B. B. Moeur joined thousands of other Arizonans today in voicing opposition to the 18th amendment, voting to make this state the 21st to ratify repeal.

"I am personally dry," the governor said after he cast his ballot in the statewide election, "but I supported the mandate of President Roosevelt and the government."

Prohibition leaders conceded there was no chance for Arizona to become the first state to register its opposition to the 21st or repeal amendment. This state's prohibition enforcement laws were removed from the statutes by a vote of more than 2 to 1 last November. In today's election there was no slate of prohibitionist delegates on the ballot, and citizens favoring retention of the 18th amendment were forced to write in the names of their choices.

Totaling of the ballots was expected to show that 50 per cent or fewer of the state's 153,000 registered electors had visited the polls before their closing at 6 p. m. (Mountain Standard Time).

Voters also selected a congressional nominee for the seat of Lewis W. Douglas, now director of the federal budget.

Pernamuco, Brazil, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Graf Zeppelin inaugurating a fortnightly service, arrived late today from Germany on its fourth trip of the season.

County Normal To Receive State Aid

Word has been received from the state department of public instruction that at least $908 and probably as much as $1,000 will be distributed by the state for payment of salaries to county normal teachers, it was announced at last night's meeting of the Escanaba board of education.

The board of education voted to continue the county normal in the Franklin school buildirg next year, and has offered contracts to the same two teachers, who had charge of the normal work last year, at salaries based on what the state is willing to pay. The teachers have indicated they will accept.

Applications are now being received by either C. U. Woolpert, county school commissioner, or Supt. R. E. Cheney from high school graduates of Delta county who wish to enroll for the year's course. The accommodations are limited to a class of about twenty-five.

Swings at the Franklin and Jefferson school grounds will be taken down for the summer vacation period, as a result of complaints received from citizens residing in the vicinity o the effect that much disturbance was being caused by boys and young men, playing on the swings at late hours.

12 Cents Judgment Awarded To Woman

Detroit, Aug. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Selma Carlson was awarded a judgment for 12 cents today in her suit against Patrolmen Ernest Taylor and Alfred Schmitt for false arrest.

The patrolmen arrested Mrs. Carlson last December and she was held in jail for six days while they investigated charges that she had stolen a purse containing $1.

A truck driver in London was fined $25 for driving 15 miles an hour; the truck contained two tons of TNT.

FAIR STIRS UP FARM INTEREST

Perronville to Establish Market Days on Real Permanent Basis

The Perronville community fair and market day, organized under the leadership of Rev. Father T. A. Drengacz, was formally launched yesterday morning and was continued throughout the day. A considerable number of farmers of the community gathered for the formal opening of the market yesterday morning and during the day the number was gradually increased.

At the opening of the institution yesterday morning some of the farmers brought horses, new and old potatoes and other products for either sale or barter, but the majority of those participating were present to observe the plan as it was placed in effect.

With the interest displayed and the appeal that was made to them by speakers who delivered brief addresses at the formal opening, it is thought that at succeeding fairs the number and variety of products of the home and farm that will be shown will be greatly increased.

The fair is to be held on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month and Rev. Father Drengacz positively announced that no matter how meagre may be the success of the movement, at the outset, it is to be carried throughout the summer and fall months.

At the formal opening of the program yesterday morning, brief addresses were delivered by Thomas Lynott, of the Northwest Fruit Company, Senator H. J. Rushton and John P. Norton.

ORDINANCE NO. 84

AN ORDINANCE TO AUTHORIZE THE ISSUING OF NINE THOUSAND DOLLARS ($9,000.00) OF REFUNDING BONDS OF THE CITY OF ESCANABA, MICHIGAN

WHEREAS, Nine Thousand Dollars ($9,000.00) Special Assessment Street Paving Bonds of the City of Escanaba, issued August 15, 1924, shall become due on September 1, 1933, and

WHEREAS, There are no funds in the City Treasury which can be used to pay said bonds so due and outstanding, and it is deemed necesary and advisable by the Council of the City of Escanaba, to extend the time of payment of said bonds so due and payable, aggregating Nine Thousand Dollars ($9,000.0) and to issue new bonds of the City of Escanaba in place of said bonds, in such manner as to merely change, but not to increase the indebtedness of said city, NOW THEREFORE, THE CITY OF ESCANABA ORDAINS:

Section 1. That there shall be and there is hereby ordered and directed to be issued the negotiable coupon bonds of the City of Escanaba, Michigan, to the amount of Nine Thousand Dollars ($9,000.00) to be known as Refunding Bonds; for the purpose of extending the time of payment of a like amount of outstanding bonds of said city due as herenbefore recited, in such manner as to merely change, but not increase the indebtedness of said city; said new bonds shall be Nine (9) in number, numbered from one to nine inclusive (1-9) of the denomination of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) each; said bonds to be dated September 1, 1933, and become due and payable as fdlows: Bonds numbered one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight and nine (12-3-4-5-6-7-8-9) shall become due and payable September 1, A. RHEUMAX EXPELS POISON

The cause of rheumatism is poison in the system. If your muscles or joints pain you, even though it may not seem serious when it starts, as long as that poison remains in your system you are going to suffer.

The source of the poison may be eliminated and the disease checked, but whether the source is located or not, whether it is temporary or permanent, the fact remains that the poison must be eliminated. That is what Rheumax is for. It's sole purpose is to eliminate the poison. If you have rheumatism go to your druggist at once and get a box of Rheumax.

Van Wagoner Says Dust Must Go On Peninsula Routes

A definite promise to get rid of highway dust was made by Murray D. Van Wagoner at an informal meeting held here with county officials.

Projects for road work under federal appropriations were discussed, and an immediate start on such work was indicated. Mr. Van Wagoner was accompanied by Geo. Depew, Alger county engineer, and Don Kennedy, state construction engineer.

A seven hour day schedule and minimum wage of $14 weekly on all county road work started here Monday as announced by County Engineer Sleeper. It will affect 90 men.

Progress Reported On Road Projects

Newberry, Aug. 8 (Special)—The 9-miles of highway from the beginning of the stone road east to the county line, which has been under construction since December 1st will be completed by September 1st, according to announcement of highway offiicials here. The three miles on the western end of the project, from McLeod's corners west will be done by August 15.

This road is one of the oldest in the county, connecting Newberry with the Sault, and was built by D. N. McLeod. The old 18 foot surface has been widened to 36 feet, deeper and better drainage has been made and through the swamp area where the driving hazard was greatest, the ditches have been placed 45 feet out. Along by the Bonifas camps the dip in the road was corrected and raised for 2,800 feet with the old 14 foot surface widened to 21 feet and covered with crushed stone. Also the east mile has been resurfaced and is 21 feet wide. All culverts have been lengthened to conform to the new width. This project has been under contract by the Phelps Drake people.

The 5.971 miles east from the McLeod corner to the county line is under contract by the Moris Hickey people of Appleton, Wis., and this will not be finished until September 1st. Between 100 and 150 men have been employed in staggered crews on these two jobs, working through the winter with the exception of a time when the ground was frozen so deep that work was impossible. The jobs are both entirely federal aid and done at no cost to the county.

This is one of the blessings of the so-called depression. The road, built years ago and all right for the traffic needs of those days, was narrow and bumpy and made a driving hazard which could no longer be tolerated. Many local merchants believe that with this fine highway in use much of the traffic which now goes straight west on U. S. 2 will now come through Newberry.

NEWBERRY LOCALS

The Hon. Carl Mapes and wife from Grand Rapids and the Hon. J. L. Hooper and wife from Battle Creek are guests of Dr. and Mrs. F. P. Bohn at the Bohn summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Itos Harris of Monroe stopped off here for a few hours to visit with Miss Ruth Anderson. The young couple had been married at Powers on August 1st and were on their wedding trip. Mrs. Harris is the former Viola Kell, a fellow teacher with Miss Anderson in the Monroe schools.

Miss Frances Beaulieu, who underwent an operation for the relief of appendicitis at the local hospital on Monday, is resting very comfortably. Miss Mildred Baetz is nursing her.

Mrs. Peter S. Chenard and daughter Miss Lucille together with Mrs. Josephine Beaudin are taking an extended car trip through Ontario, visiting relatives in Thessalon and other points.

CAR ACCIDENT

Serious injury was escaped by occupants of two cars which crashed on U. S. 2 near Rexton on the evening of August 6. The car driven by Mrs. D. A. Harris of Whiting, Ind., was badly damaged when it was crashed by one driven by Wallace C. Frechette of Rexton. Officers investigated the accident but no one was held.

HANEY FUNERAL

An unusually sad funeral was held from the Beaulieu parlors on Monday afternoon for Joseph Haney of Engadine who died instantly on August 3rd from a gunshot wound in the chest. The shot was fired by Otto Haney 46 year old son of the dead man when he mistook his father for a deer in the woods near Gould City.

Haney had pleaded guilty to manslaughter and is on bail of $1,000 in custody of Eugene Brown in order to attend the funeral. Henry Haney was 71 years of age and had been living with his daughter Mrs. William St. Denis of Engadine where Otto also made his home. Besides the son Otto, Mr. Haney leaves his widow, Mrs. Nettie Haney, another son, Ernest of Flint and four daughters; Mrs. Louis Derusha of Marquette, Mrs. Edward Greenless of Flint, Mrs. Francis Campbell and Mrs. Tony Hoody of Newberry and Mrs. William St. Dennis. The service was conducted by Rev. Knife of St. Ignace and burial took place in Forest Home cemetery.

AMUSEMENTS

Lionel Barrymore and Miriam Hopkins are co-starred in "The Stranger's Return," which opens at the Delft Theatre as a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the currently popular Phil Strong novel of rural life, which follows his recent best-seller, "State Fair."

As the 85-year-old patriarch of a farm founded and pioneered by his family, Lionel Barrymore is said to have one of the most interesting characterizations of his brilliant career. His histronic power is declared by preview critics to have attained new height in the climatic scenes.

Miss Hopkins, among the most popular feminine stars on the screen today, is afforded the best opportunity she has had in her role of the city girl who goes to her grandfather's farm and finds there the peace and contentment she couldn't get in the city. Here is a role of exacting demands and she is said to have exceeded in power the strength written into the original part.

WHEAT ACREAGE CUTS OUTLINED

Sample Contracts Sent to Delta County Farmers

Sample wheat contracts have been received at Escanaba, signaling the start of the government's wheat acreage reduction campaign. A million and a half applications for wheat adjustments will be distributed to farmers before asking them to sign up.

Shortly following the distribution of the applications, the administration will mail 1,000,000 specimen wheat contracts for inspection and study by farmers. The wheat campaign will affect approximately 1,200,000 farmers in 1,200 counties in 40 states. Applications should be in farmers' hands within 10 days.

Preliminary educational and organization work in the chief wheat producing counties has been under way for several weeks, and applications and specimen contracts will be distributed as the educational program nears completion.

In the contract, farmers are offered cash adjustment payments of not less than 28 cents a bushel for 1933 on an allotment of 54 per cent of their adjusted average past production, of which 20 cents will be paid this fall and the remainder next spring when farmers prove that they have complied with the acreage reduction for 1934 which may be required by Secretary Wallace.

S. J. BREAULT PASSES AWAY

Well Known Barber of Escanaba Dies in Detroit Hospital

Stephen J. Breault, 69, died at Harper hospital in Detroit 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning after a month's illness due to a complication of diseases.

Mr. Breault was born in Ottawa, Canada, Nov. 11, 1863, and came to Garden when a young man. For more than thirty years, he was engaged in Garden in the barbering trade. He moved to Escanaba in 1917, and was employed at the Joseph Delorier barber shop and later was associated with Oliver Groleau.

He was a member of the Escanaba council No. 640, Knights of Columbus, and the Escanaba Barbers' Union.

Besides his widow, he is survived by three sons and four daughters: Henry and Frank, Escanaba; Stephen, Mrs. Jennie Truckey, Mrs. Herbert Shay, Mrs. George Roberts and Mrs. Gordon Flock, all of Detroit.

The body will be brought to the Allo funeral home to be prepared for burial. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

OBITUARY

EDWARD WILLIAMS

Funeral services for Edward Williams, 48, will be held at the Allo funeral home 10 o'clock Thursday morning, with Rev. Fr. Edward Leary officiating. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Grain Exchanges Will Offer Code

Washington, Aug. 7 (AP)—Grain exchanges today responded to the demand of farm administrators for a code covering reforms intended to bring stabilization of prices.

They informed administrators that on Wednesday they will submit a code of exchange practices which the farm officials plan to pass on as soon as possible.

After the mid-July collapse in grain prices, administrators called exchange representatives together here and George N. Peek, the chief administrator, told them that if they did not "put their houses in order," the administration would prescribe a code.

The largest mass of copper ore on record was found in a Minnesota mine in 1857; it measured 45 feet in length, 22 feet at its greatest width and more than eight feet in its thickest part, weighed 420 tons and contained over 90 per cent of pure copper.

WELCOME EASTERN STARS

MEMBERS of the Order of Eastern Star in the upper peninsula, will come to Escanaba today, to participate in the annual convention of the upper peninsula association of that organization. Escanaba has just concluded the pleasant duty of entertaining the Kiwanians of Wisconsin and upper Michigan at a three day convention, when the people of this city joined in a general movement to make the stay of their guests in Escanaba a pleasant one. Members of the Order of Eastern Star will find prepared for them the same enthusiastic spirit of hospitality that was accorded their predecessors and an equal effort will be exerted by all of our residents to make the visit of this new group of guests, one that they will long remember for the genuineness of Escanaba's welcome, as well as because of our unstinted hospitality extended through every moment of their stay here.

PROTECTING CONSUMERS

CONSUMERS who have been somewhat disturbed by the rapid rise in the prices of food and other necessaries will welcome publication by the government of a weekly "fair-price" list for their protection. The list will show what farmers get for raw commodities, what labor gets in increased wages under the industrial program, and what farmers must pay for the things they buy.

It is logical that the government, having stimulated prices, should take measures to keep them within bounds. Wages inevitably lag behind price increases, even when these increases do not have the stimulation of bounties and production control. And while mass purchasing power unquestionably will be greater under the recovery program, there are millions of individuals who have not yet felt its benefits and will not for a long time to come.

A fair price list will provide a measuring stick for the buying public, and the operation of public opinion will discourage gouging. In the long run, public opinion will be the most effective means of control, although other measures are available if they are required.

CHICAGO WAKES UP

CHICAGO apparently means business in its war on crime. Gangsters, racketeers and hoodlums, accustomed to lax prosecutions, long delays, and to bargaining for light sentences, are discovering to their amazement that quick trials and maximum sentences are now the rule. Half a dozen judges have given up summer vacations to help clean up the crowded criminal dockets.

The country will hope that the present exhibition of activity in Chicago is not just another flash in the pan. Chicago's lawlessness has been a national disgrace, and a challenge to democratic government. The city has been the pivot of crime organized on a national scale.

And while there can be nothing but applause for Chicago's brave acts and promises, it might not be amiss to wonder why the efficacy of such methods was not discovered before a condition of veritable anarchy developed.

TWELVE-TO-ONE ODDS

THE best thing for the average man to do is to stay away from the stock market, says a mathematics professor who has it figured out that the odds are 12 to 1 against the little fellow who is trying to make a killing.

The advice is sound, as everyone knows, although many will be surprised that the professor's computations give the small fry as much of a chance as they do.

It is a pretty safe bet, however, that the professor's admonitions won't be widely heeded, even if they are based on mathematics.

Back at the time of wild stock gambling a few years ago, almost everybody was in the market, and many paper fortunes were made. When the collapse came, thousands of persons were wiped out. Never again, they said, and meant it—then.

But the recent stock boom saw the amateurs plunging again. Memories of a few years ago yielded to the lure of quick and easy money. There seems to be no cure for the optimism of the individual who is ready enough to concede that stock gambling is bad business, but who persists in the hope that he will not be among the hapless dozen who get trimmed.

BACTERIOPHAGE

PERHAPS medical science today stands upon the brink of its greatest discovery, by the side of which previous advances from Asculapius to Pasteur will appear dwarfed and insignificant.

Men of science tell us that the greatest foe of life is infection, that due to bacteria our lungs become diseased, our hearts enfeebled, our very brains poisoned and our bodies in turn, paralyzed.

But science has found an ally for man. This ally, the deadly enemy of bacteria, has received a name and its operations have been noted,—but beyond that it is a complete mystery.

It is named bacteriophage — literally, eater of bacteria. But it has never been seen. It not only works in the dark but dares to brave the light because of its transparency. It not only kills bacteria, it erases them. Upon its use live bacteria disappear, dead bacteria remain unaffected.

As to acute cases there is a certain form of blood poisoning of which the New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital had a uniform record of defeat. It had had fifteen cases. All of the patients, the entire fifteen had died. With the help of this new agency, itself not a drug or medicine but a creation of nature, seven cases have been treated and all saved.

Pasteur declared, "It is in the power of man to make parasitic maladies disappear from the face of the globe." Was this a vain boast, a heartfelt longing or the conviction that comes to a masterful pioneer when he sees the magnificent result of his own achievement alone?

This phage or destroyer provides itself where needed most. It was first noted in fact in India, always cholera ridden. It requires application. That is the difficulty.

And today many men of astonishing energy, unlimited means of support, and every facility that may assist in their purpose, are trying to put their finger more directly upon this silent and shy friend of mankind, that it may be suitably harnessed, and that the bedeviled bacteria who love to hide in an old tonsil or at the root of a very necessary tooth maye be routed out before they have destroyed the very organism upon which they live.

YEAR IN THE COUNTRY

JUDGES of the criminal courts in Chicago have decided to forego their vacations in order to help the war on crime. They will sit during the summer to clean up crowded dockets on which are listed charges against some of the city's most notorious gangsters.

Judges in other crime-ridden communities might well follow the example of those in Chicago. One of the chief obstacles to enforcing the law is delay in the courts. Convictions frequently are made difficult or impossible because crowded dockets or the maneuverings of defense lawyers are able to postpone trials. Every day's delay makes presentation of evidence more difficult for prosecutors.

Moreover, swift justice is infinitely more effective in deterring crime. A criminal who knows he will be brought quickly to book will hesitate a lot longer than one who knows his possible conviction may be put off and perhaps circumvented. The term "nolle prosse" is familiar to every courthouse reporter; usually it means that the prosecutor has dropped charges against someone because he no longer believes he can get a conviction.

Crime never takes a vacation. There is no reason why justice should.

LOVE OF EVE

(By NEA Service) BY LUCY WALLING

CHAPTER I CONTINUED

The second of the most important events of Eve's life was to take place within two hours after her wedding. Two sharp sounds of the buzzer summoned her to the office of Earle Barnes, advertising manager of Bixby's. Although her work took her to Barnes' office many times each day, Eve felt half-sick with trepidation this time. She trembled involuntarily, and her head throbbed with a dull ache. Yet she strove to maintain an appearance of outward calm. A swift glance in the wavy old mirror hanging over the washstand in the corner reassured her, and the group gathered about Barnes' desk little suspected that the lovely, flushed face and eager, bright eyes of the girl joining them masked real fright. Eve's chin was held high, however, and she managed a smile as she acknowledged the salutatory nod of white-haired Mr. Bixby, founder and owner of the store. So much depended upon the outcome of this conference.

Barnes drew up a chair for Eve, next to Alice Marshall, who was first assistant advertising manager. Mr. Bixby brought from his vest pocket a pair of Oxford glasses which he unfolded and adjusted on his dignified nose. "The better to see you, my dear," thought Eve, and she felt that with the aid of those powerful lenses he could pierce through to her innermost thoughts and discover her secret.

"Miss Bayless," he began with customary dignity, "you are undoubtedly aware that it is the policy of the Bixby store to watch carefully the progress of each of its employes. From the time you joined us we have noted with satisfaction your spirit toward your work, your co-operation and your initiative." Mr. Bixby smoothed the narrow black ribbon attached to his glasses before he went on.

"Miss Marshall is leaving us, as you, of course, know. And it becomes necessary for us to choose a successor to fill her position. Mr. Barnes and I discussed the matter of the New York trip after my talk with you this morning, Miss Bayless, and it has been definitely decided that you are to go."

"Oh—how nice!" Eve managed to articulate.

"It will give added interest and importance to the launching of your special column and ought to give you talking points for many weeks to come. Women read department store advertising primarily for the purpose of learning of bargains and new merchandise. I've always contended, however, that in addition advertising should be chatty and interesting in itself. Well, we're counting on you to make Bixby's advertising chatty and interesting.

"What this change may lead to eventually depends largely upon yourself—the selling power of your copy, your initiative and the ability you display in other ways."

"Thank you. I'll do my very best," Eve promised. "Do you—did you definitely decide that I'm to go tonight? I could go a little later just as well." Eve was praying in her heart, "Not tonight. Dear God, don't let it be tonight!"

Mr. Bixby frowned slightly. "Yes, you are to start tonight. I thought that point was definitely understood. As you know, Miss Marshall leaves Saturday. We want you here the following Monday.

"Go up to my office," Mr. Bixby went on, "and Miss Birney will take care of your expense money. She's wired for a hotel reservation and ordered your transportation. Take whatever time you need this afternoon to go home and pack or for shopping." With an indulgent smile he dismissed an exultant yet frightened Eve.

Eve knew that this trip to New York meant that the management at Bixby's had almost certainly decided upon her as the successor to Alice Marshall. When she accepted the expense money for the trip, she felt she had sealed her fate. It was the thing she had wanted, of course. She had slaved to get where she was. Eve's work always had come before her pleasures and ever since she began working she had bent all her energy toward one goal—to become manager of an advertising office. This promotion was a long and important step toward that ambition.

The expense money exchanged for Travelers' checks and tucked safely into the chamois bag with her precious wedding ring, Eve went to the Y. W. C. A., where she had roomed ever since coming to Lake City, and packed a bag for the New York trip.

The small, shabby room at the Y that she had occupied these last busy, happy months of her girlhood already seemed a little strange, a little deserted. Eve had stayed on here even after she could have afforded more attractive and comfortable quarters. This decision was prompted entirely by economy. The building was conveniently near her work and provided room and board at a very reasonable rate. Eve preferred to economize thus and put the money saved into pretty clothes and educational advancement. Eve was careful; thrifty. She did nothing without a definite purpose.

From the little table that served as a writing desk the pictured face of Eve's mother smiled at her from its cheap frame—the warm, steady mother-smile that had been unfailing all through Eve's life. Now she paused contritely before that picture of Kate Bayless. It was wrong, of course, not to have written to her mother that she was marrying Dick today. It was the first time she had ever shut her mother out from any important event of her life. True, she and Dick had decided hastily. And of course her mother was certain to approve of Dick. Eve reflected proudly. Her father, too. Dick Rader was exactly the sort of dependable, industrious young man to please the most exacting parents. Nothing to worry about on that score.

Suddenly Eve was conscious of that cheap, nondescript frame that held her mother's picture. Always she had planned to buy a better one, but always there had been something she had wanted for herself. Now she was ashamed that Dick should see her mother's picture in this frame. It almost seemed to her that he would know about the various things she had bought for herself with money that might have bought a frame. She would buy a new one in New York—a lovely, silver one.

As she packed for the trip Eve remembered regretfully that she really had very little beside her clothes to take to her new home. She had never, as do so many girls, bought pretty things to adorn her future home. Esther, her sister, had dozens of lovely gifts to take with her when she married. But Esther had had a long engagement to a home-town boy, showers, engagement parties, and a wedding to which a wide circle of relatives and friends were invited. Those things meant so much to Esther. With Eve marriage was important, but so was her career.

Eve recalled how she had started at Bixby's. Determined to get a foothold as a copy writer, she had made the rounds of all the agencies and all the stores in Lake City before she reached Bixby's. The fact that no one needed a beginner and frankly told her so, had not discouraged her but merely put her on her mettle.

Then she did what she considered a daring, preposterous thing. She went to Bixby's, most exclusive store of all, and begged Earle Barnes, the advertising manager, to give her a trial. "Never mind discussing salary now," she had said. "Let me work two weeks. Then give me what you think I'm worth." And that astute gentleman, who prided himself on his shrewdness in judging an applicant's character and ability, had told her to go ahead.

HORIZON

(Suggested by W. A. P., Dallas, Tex.)

Beyond the fields I see the line
That marks this little world of mine,
The far horizon—yet I know
Beyond it other rivers flow
And other fields there are as green
Beyond my vision's small demesne.
'Tis but a line, whose mystic light
But marks the limit of my sight.

Beyond it there are gardens, rills,
And vales, and everlasting hills,
And highways I have never known,
And cities fairer than my own.
Beyond it golden turrets gleam
That I may but behold in dream,
For well I know the world is more
Than this small world before my door.

And death is an horizon, just
A line dividing earthly dust
From that great spirit land that lies
Beyond the vision of my eyes.
There where the world begins to bend
Is not the ultimate and end.
Death is a line that marks for me
The little distance I can see.

Miss Marion Treiber was the guest of honor at a farewell party given by a number of her friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trieber, 417 South Jennie street. Miss Treiber will leave soon with her parents for Billings, Mont., where the family will make its future home.

Escanaba and Gladstone physicians who have returned from the annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Medical Society at Ishpeming, are the following: Drs. A. L. Laing, W. B. Boyce, J. R. Mitchell, A. H. Miller, A. S. Kitchen, L. R. Kratze, M. P. Fenelon, A. S. Snyder and A. J. Carlson.

Practically every contract has now been awarded for the completion of every department of the new Delta hotel. D. C. Sarfent, of Fond du Lac, president of the Wisconsin Hotel corporation and lessee of the new hotel building, was in the city yesterday and expresses himself as immensely pleased with the progress of the work.

The Misses Gertrude and Nora McCauley have left for Green Bay to attend the homecoming celebration.

A venemous Costa Rican snake, three feet in length, was found in a bunch of bananas by J. H. Barrett, a Gladstone merchant yesterday.

Miss Ruth Doyle has returned from a visit in Detroit, Buffalo and Chicago.

Miss Gertrude Deasy of Marquette is visiting with the Misses Ethel and Maude Cusson.

John Thackery, representing Doubleday Brothers of Kalamazoo is in the city on business.

Atty. Homer L. Fitch, who for the past several years has successfully practiced law in this city, has left for Los Angeles, Cal., where he will make his future home.

Kiwanians Hear Appeal For Providing Adequate Educational Facilities

"Maintenance of Adequate Educational Facilities" was the subject of an interesting address delivered by William T. Darling, superintendent of the public schools of Wauwatosa, Wis., at yesterday's session of the Kiwanis club.

Mr. Darling spoke as follows:

From time immemorial it has been recognized that if a country were to prosper its rulers must be wise and virtuous. It did not follow that kings always were wise and virtuous but it was recognized as a desirable combination. It is no less true today; but in a democracy such as ours we, the people, are the rulers and if the nation is to prosper the rulers must still be wise and virtuous. We choose from among our own numbers, those whom we make our temporary rulers—our servants. We choose our governor and our legislature to give up their usual work and devote themselves to serving us—to make our laws and to enforce them; and if in our blindness or our ignorance we select men of low ideals and of little virtue, men more interested in the spoils of office than in its opportunities to minister to the good of the state, we must pay the cost. It is a sorry spectacle to see some of our great cities literally beggared while its erstwhile rulers have grown rich; or to see cities literally governed by the gangsters and the racketeers. It would probably be a gross libel to say that the average citizen of Chicago is in sympathy with the gangs which to an outsider appear to dominate the city, but it is unquestionably true that if the decent citizens who deplore gang control would assert themselves with the decisiveness of the gang, and elect fearless officials pledged to abolish the gangs, Chicago could be cleaned up in a month.

It is therefore of the greatest importance that our young people who soon will take over the reins of government shall be well educated—which is not the same as being well schooled. It is also true that it is much more effective to train for citizenship the lower strata, say the lower 75 per cent by one degree than to double the effectiveness of the top 5 per cent or even the top 25 per cent so education must be universal.

The "Noble Experiment"

In 1918 we undertook what our president rightly called a "noble experiment" but because at least a large and active minority were out of sympathy with the experiment and because the enforcement of the law was never entrusted to those who fervently believed in it, we are facing the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment with a fearful probability that we shall see the return of all the evils which we fondly hoped had been outlawed. When the Eighteenth Amendment was passed the forces opposed to the liquor traffic assumed that their work was completed and they ceased their campaign of education. On the other hand, those out of sympathy with Prohibition instituted a most effective educational campaign to discredit it and that campaign, amply financed, fostered by a wet press, and directed by the best talent that could be employed, so persistently charged all contemporary lawlessness to prohibition that the rank and file came to believe that it was true. This is one of the outstanding results in a generation, of the efficacy of team work in promoting sentiment, and it shows what can be done by cooperation.

Kiwanis is deeply concerned with improving the status of the underprivileged child and none of its objectives is more worthy, for the Master Himself has said of the little one, "Of such is the kingdom of Heaven" and has pronounced a special curse upon such as offends one of them. But who is the underprivileged child? We would all agree that the child who is stunted from underfeeding, is underprivileged; we would not quarrel about so classifying the child who lacks the clothes to keep him warm in winter; we are ready to sympathize almost to the point of tears with the boy to whom fortune has brought a crippling accident so that his body is twisted and broken; but are we equally ready to weep over the child with food and clothing enough for comfort, but in surroundings which warp his mind and scar his soul; are we ready to do battle to prevent the operation of influences which will, with a great degree of certainty, lead him into the ways of the racketeer and the gangster? Is it not true that the child who has the capacity to become an Edison or a Lindbergh is underprivileged if he is not placed in surroundings which will help translate that latent power into active talent for that talent will develop for either good or evil. The only way to be sure that we have ministered to all the underprivileged children is to give to all children the care that will give them sound bodies, sound and active minds and the sound and sane sense of moral values that will steer their activities into right channels. Anything less is not only unwise—it is dangerous. Unfortunately, the garden, left to itself will not choke out the weeds and grow to be a thing of beauty, but it requires unremitting care to keep the weeds from crowding out the flowers. In the past few weeks or months we have seen that dastardly crime, kidnapping, greatly increase. Public opinion is overwhelmingly against it—those who practice it are few, but this intelligent audience does not need to be told that it will not be eradicated merely by a shocked sense of its vileness. Not until that shocked feeling is galvanized into drastic and summary action—not until it is made more dangerous to practice that crime than to forego it—not until the shock is translated into the sort of force which, alone, those depraved minds can assimilate, will persons be safe.

Evils of Unemployment

"Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do," says the wise men. Within the past months the unemployment resulting from the depression has developed bands of wandering boys, and more lately of wandering girls, with no ties of home life, picking up a precarious living by begging or by thieving, yielding unchecked to that wanderlust which is the heritage of every young person, unrestrained by the force of any opinion which they respect, emboldened by the size of the group, and by the reluctance of the law to punish youthful offenders. They drift from place to place, becoming daily more firmly set in the conviction that the world owes them a living which they propose to collect, peaceably if they may, forcibly if they must. The danger is great, not alone that finding the collection of that living comparatively easy, they may demand more and more as their right, but also that in increasing numbers other young people may desert the prosaic and difficult process of earning a living and living within their means, and may join the ranks of the predatory hoboes.

The late lamented legislature of the State of Wisconsin raised the age at which young people may legally be employed from 14 to 16 years. The step was scarcely as drastic as it might seem because so many were unemployed before, but at a guess it would seem that for probably more than 100,000 young people employment has become illegal through legislative action. None would seriously question that if some must be unemployed it would better be the youngsters instead of the heads of families, but the appalling question is, "What shall be done with them?" Shall they be set adrift to become loafers, pool room habitues, and tavern loungers or to join that Ishmaelitish tribe of hitchhikers, or shall the State of Wisconsin recognize its deep obligation to those young people and provide and maintain for them adequate educational facilities so that this enforced leisure may make them better citizens instead of parasites.

Child Labor Reduced

The National Recovery Act has dealt a heavy blow to child labor—perhaps it has knocked it out of the economic ring altogether, and the nation rejoices that President Roosevelt has taken that step to free the children from potential if not virtual slavery. But that action comes at a time when in the Southern States where child labor was most prevalent, the schools have in many instances been closed and in probably most instances drastically reduced in both quantity and quality. It is like reducing or shutting off the water supply from the fireman who are fighting a fire. These states or the nation must supply the educational facilities or serious consequences will result.

Costs of Education

Education is an expensive process, but whereas it costs approximately $100 per year to educate a child in the public schools, it costs upwards of $500 to maintain a prisoner—a striking illustration of the ounce of prevention and the pound of cure especially since it is rarely a cure. The percentage of high school or college graduates in our penal institutions is altogether too high but it is still vastly less than the percentage of illiterates. As we rise in the educational scale we find fewer and fewer in prisons, and while that may be partially due to greater astuteness in escaping, it is entirely credible that education does help materially in keeping young people in the straight and narrow path. Therefore, when we rail at the cost of our educational institutions let us give heed to the alternative. Schools cost less than jails and bring infinitely greater returns in peace, safety and happiness.

Has it ever occurred to you to analyze your tax bill? In the city of Wauwatosa the cost for the entire police department is $5.15 on a $5,000 home—about the average for the city. If the home owner had to employ a man to protect his property for a single week it would cost him more than that. For the fire department the same man pays $2.80. If we had not an efficient fire department, he would pay more than that in the premium on his fire insurance. The public library costs him $1.50 per year and for that meager sum some 30,000 books and pamphlets are at his disposal and if he needs information on some subject he may call the library and one of the librarians will investigate and report. The same man pays $33.85 for the schools and the average home owner has a child in the process of being educated at a cost of approximately $100. Wauwatosa is a residential city and one of its chief assets is its schools. Were the schools permitted to deteriorate until they were reputed to be poor, the price of his property would drop very rapidly and people who believe in education would not want to live there. Many a town boasts of its good schools but I have never heard of one advertising poor schools or even cheap schools. Moreover at a cost of $100 per year for education the child who attends 180 days or 9 months for six hours per day is educated at a per hour cost of less than 10 cents. If you have ever employed a tutor or a music instructor you will know that you must pay more than 10 times that amount. Analyze your tax bill and consider what you get for your taxes and you will discover that your tax dollar brings you more returns than any other dollar you spend.

Opposition to Schools

It is interesting to consider who are actively opposing taxes for public education. Those quite naturally fall into about five classes. First, there are those who say, "I had little education, and see what I have done. Education is not necessary." This class either magnifies their own achievements or minimizes the value of natural endowment. Second, there are those who believe that the schools of a generation or two ago with dilapidated buildings, meager equipment and with often poorly prepared teachers are all that is necessary. Their slogan is "What was good enough for me is good enough for my children," but even they would protest vigorously if it were possible and were proposed to go back from the automobile to the horse and buggy or the lumber wagon; from the selfbinder to the cradle and the hand rake; from the electric light to the kerosene lamp or the candle, from the paved road to the sand and mud through which an earlier generation plodded, or from machine to hand production of manufactured goods. Third is the class whose children have all grown out of school and who have therefore very little interest in education. Fourth is the group who are economically deeply embarrassed, find it hard to make ends meet and to pay their taxes and in their extremity, lash out at anything that costs money, and Fifth, the class whose economic self-interest leads them to object to pay for the education of other people's children. They are in the main those who pay the heavy taxes. This last class is the most dangerous because the cleverest and because they have the greatest resources. Within a year, the National Chamber of Commerce sent out a letter to its constituents in which they boldly challenge the propriety of educating the children of poor parents. Of course they do not put it in words which so clearly express their purpose but (according to my recollection) they propose that education shall be free through the elementary grades, that through the high school students or their parents shall pay half the cost, and beyond the high school they shall pay the entire cost. It must be clear to anyone who stops to consider the proposition that this would deny to many many children the opportunity to be educated beyond the eighth grade, while it would assure to the children of the wealthy all the privileges of high school and college and so perpetuate them in their economic control. Just how many of you could afford to send your son or your daughter to college if you had to pay beside his board and room and incidental expenses, the salaries of the professors, janitor service, the price of expensive apparatus, the erection and repair of buildings, and various other costs of educations. Many of us find it possible by the strictest economy to finance a college education for our children, but if the cost were increased by even a small fraction it would make it prohibitive. There are unquestionably those economically fortunate people to whom a few additional thousand dollars per year would not be much of a hurdle, and the scions of wealth who now belong to exclusive social fraternities and who have expensive cars of their own to drive at college, could continue to enjoy the privilege of cultural and professional education while the boys and girls, often equally worthy, whose attendance depends upon their eschewing social pleasures and finding a few chance jobs at tending furnace or washing dishes would find the doors of opportunity closed to them. Can it be that the playboys who are sent to college for the social sanctification of a degree are finding too stiff the competition of those eager students often poor in purse who go to college with an active and inquiring mind, thirsting for knowledge and ready to do real work?

For Children's Benefit

Schools are instituted and maintained for the benefit of the children so that they may be made better citizens. Any other argument for the schools is indefensible. Teachers are a necessary equipment as are seats, and textbooks but the schools do not exist either that publishers may sell text books, or manufacturers sell seats or to provide employment for teachers. In these hectic days there appear to be those who believe that they are for the purpose of employing teachers, and there is considerable controversy whether married women should be employed, and whether all local applicants should be employed before any "outside" teachers are accepted. All this is beside the point. If the best available teacher is a married woman who comes from outside the community she should be employed because the schools must be run for the best interests of the children. Comfortable salaries for teachers are to be defended not merely because good salaries permit wider selection, but also because the teacher who receives enough salary to feel self-respecting is certain to do better work than the same teacher if she is obliged to apologize for being a teacher or a cut-rate teacher. The same thing may be said for the Retirement Allowance; the teacher who faces the future with a feeling that when, earlier than in any comparable profession, she becomes superannuated, she need not fear becoming wholly either a public or a private charge can build much safer and saner citizens,—citizens much more ready to support and maintain their government than can the teacher constantly haunted by the specter of herself as too old to teach, with the prospect of several years of life ahead and forced to accept either the private charity of her family or the charity of the public in the form of county relief or a dole. Some business men apparently do not appreciate the tremendous spiritual influence of the character and the state of mind of the teacher upon the child in his plastic years. During his school days no person on earth, with the possible exception of the mother has an influence upon the child, at all comparable with that of the teacher. The man who would not for a day trust a high spirited colt or a nervous dog in the hands of an incompetent trainer will with the utmost unconcern send his son and heir to a school presided over by a nervous, ill-prepared, underpaid and fearful teacher. If he grows up to be a fine upstanding man it will be the result of his heritage, if he goes wrong it will be charged to the school. It behooves Kiwanians to demand not merely good buildings to house the bodies of the children but high grade teachers to mould their souls.

The maintenance of adequate educational facilities is a task worthy the best efforts of any and of every Kiwanian. Our motto is "We build" and in one of our songs we sing lustily "I'd rather build a man than a mansion". But we need to be more than disciples who believe in an idea and follow a leader; we must be apostles of the idea, preaching it, believing in it, fighting for it if need be. The schools need friends who will acquaint themselves with the ideals and practices of the schools, counsel them kindly where changes are needed and defend them staunchly from their blind critics. The hope of the community and of the nation is its boys and girls and none need be ashamed of fighting in their behalf. Let us see to it that our communities and our State shall maintain adequate educational facilities.

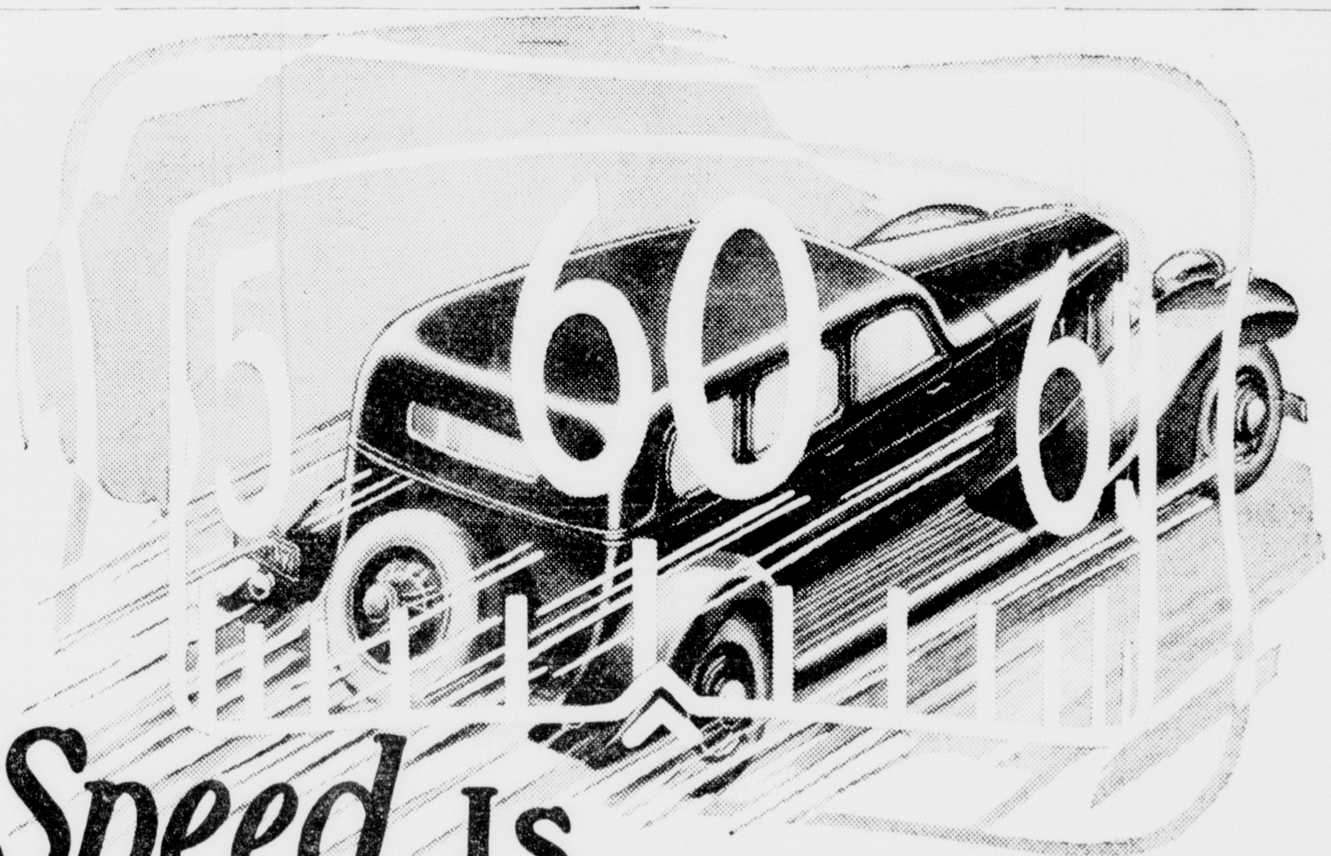
Carpenters' Union

A meeting of the Carpenter's Union, Number 1832, will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock at Grenier's hall. All members are asked to attend.

A small ravine in the northeastern corner of Yellowstone Park is known as "Death Gulch." In the early days, numerous bears, elk and squirrels met their deaths there from natural poison gas.



Speed Is Still the Measure

NO matter how much we talk of the beauties and wisdom of "conservative" driving, speed is still the unfailing index of what we want to know about our motor — and our fuel.

We just can't help trying it out. Will "she" still jump at the touch of toe? What's her best on the level straight-away? Will she answer the demand for extra "m.p.h." without clanking a hateful protest?

Always — speed is the ultimate test — so by that revealing measure we tell you to judge

Mobilgas ... the Improved 370

Ah! There is a new feel of assurance! Old motor or new, you mark the difference instantly. What a satisfaction to take hill, curve or level stretch with that subtle positiveness so clearly revealed by speed conditions.

What a glow of satisfaction in sensing certain mastery of the "load" without the penalty of disagreeable knock.

And all this superiority without the drawback of premium price! For today, every extra quality of golden, silent Mobilgas (the improved 370) is yours at only 1½ cents over "low".

Miss Reynolds Is The Bride Of Dr. A. E. Jacob

St. Patrick's church was the scene of a lovely midsummer wedding Tuesday morning, the marriage of Miss Genevieve K. Reynolds, daughter of Mrs. Lillian Reynolds, of this city, 501 First avenue south, to Dr. A. E. Jacob, of Milwaukee, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Jacob, of Ishpeming.

The ceremony was performed at a nuptial high mass at 9 o'clock, Rev. Father Gerald Harrington, celebrant of the mass, conducting the impressive marriage service.

The music of the mass was sung by St. Patrick's choir with Mrs. William Ramspeck presiding at the organ and Miss Clara Karas playing the violin obbligato. William Ramspeck, Jr., sang the "Ave Maria" at the offertory, and during the marriage service, Mrs. William F. Shepeck sang "O Promise Me," and at the conclusion of the ceremony, "I Love You Truly."

The Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" was played by Mrs. Ramspeck as members of the bridal party entered the church.

The bride, preceded by two little flower girls and her bridesmaid, entered with her uncle, M. H. Harris, who gave her in marriage, while the bridegroom and his attendant entered from the side and with Rev. Father Harrington awaited her at the altar.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white satin faced crepe, the model fashioned of fitted lines with a high cowl neckline and long close fitting sleeves, puffed at the shoulder line and tapering over the wrists. With it she wore a small close fitting hat of white, with a tiny veil, white gloves and white slippers. She carried a bridal bouquet of roses, gypsophilia, and lilies of the valley.

Her bridesmaid, Miss Margaret Reynolds, her sister, wore a charming model of pink satin and net, with a close fitting bodice and floor length skirt fashioned of bands of net and satin, and with it, a hat of pink maline and pink moire slippers. She carried an arm bouquet of roses, snapdragon and gypsophilia.

The little flower girls, Jean Gamble of Gladstone, and Ellen Douglas Bergman of Lake Mills, Wis., were both attired in dainty frocks of pink organdie and both wore head bands and bows of pink maline. They carried bouquets of pink and blue bachelor buttons.

Mrs. Reynolds, mother of the bride, wore a becoming gown of Elinor blue crepe, with matching hat, slippers and gloves and a corsage of pink roses, and Mrs. M. B. Harris, the bride's grandmother, was attired in an ensemble of white, a corsage of sweet peas, the only color note.

The bridegroom was attended by Wallace Nault, of Ishpeming, a close friend. Rene Labre acted as usher.

Following the marriage service, Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played, as the recessional.

A wedding breakfast was served later at the Reynolds home, with covers for twenty-six guests, members of the bridal party and of the two families. The tables were beautifully appointed, with the colors of the wedding, pink and white carried out in every detail. The bridal table had as its centerpiece a large wedding cake, at the base of which roses were arranged, and over which a wedding bell of white, decorated with pink rose buds was suspended. Tall cathedral tapers of ivory, completed the centerpiece.

Reception at Home

In the afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock a reception was held at the home. The tea table was attractively arranged with a cloth of ivory lace, a centerpiece of pink and blue bachelor buttons and roses, with ivory tapers, and its silver service. Miss Fern Fontanna and Mrs. Mayadore LaPlante presided at the tea table.

Dr. and Mrs. Jacob left later in the day for Milwaukee where Dr. Jacob has opened his dental practice and where they will make their home.

The bride is a graduate of Escanaba high school and attended the College of St. Scholastica in Duluth, and also the Madame LeClaire Beauty school in Milwaukee. Dr. Jacob is a graduate of Ishpeming high school and of Marquette university, Milwaukee.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Miss Florence Jacob and Miss Mae Jacob, of Ishpeming; Wallace Nault, Ishpeming; Mrs. R. P. Neil, Calumet; Mrs. John Bergman, Lake Mills, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Harris, Powers; Dr. Paul Honkavaara, Ishpeming; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Gamble, Gladstone, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Morrell and son, Rodney, Milwaukee.

WHAT TO CAN, AND HOW

What thickness of syrup to use in canning various fruits is told in this article, the third of a series of six, on "What to Can, And How."

Let's can our fruits by the pack method rather than the old-fashioned open-kettle. To be sure, they will "keep" by the open-kettle method because fruits contain enough acid to make them easy to can. But the flavor and quality are finer, the food value is greater and the work is no heavier when the pack method is used.

It's a good idea to sort fruit, using the fine, perfect fruit for canning and the blemished for butters and preserves. The imperfections must be cut away and discarded before preparing any fruit for preserving or canning in any way.

Fruits are canned in thin, medium and heavy or thick syrups. The thickness of the syrup will depend largely upon family tastes and the use of the canned product. Fruits wanted for pies can be canned in thin sysup. Very tart fruits and those wanted for sauce will need a thick syrup. Medium syrup is suitable for pears, most berries and small fruits.

Thin syrup is made by boiling one part sugar and three parts water for three minutes.

Medium syrup uses one part sugar and two parts water and boils the syrup three minutes.

Equal parts of water and sugar are brought to the boiling point but not cooked longer to make heavy syrup.

Fruits may be canned in the hot-water bath, heat regulated oven and preasure cooker.

Fruit is washed and peeled or pitted as the case may be, ready for table use. Then it is precooked for three minutes in syrup and packed hot in hot sterilized jars. Half seal, process, finish sealing and cool quickly.

To Can Peaches

Pour boiling water to cover over fruit. Dip at once in cold water. This makes the skins peel off very easily, just like tomatoes. Cut in halves and remove pits. Pre-cook in medium or heavy syrup, pack in hot jars, cover with boiling syrup in which fruit was cooked, half seal and process in hot water bath for 20 minutes, in oven at 275 degrees F. for 30 minutes, and in pressure cooker at ten pounds pressure for ten minutes.

Apricots are treated the same way as peaches.

Pears

Pare and core. Cook in medium syrup for three minutes. Pack hot in hot jars, cover with syrup, half seal and process for 20 minutes in hot water bath, 35 minutes in oven at 275 degrees F. and ten minutes at ten pounds pressure in pressure cooker.

Plums

Wash thoroughly and prick surface of skin. Bring to the boiling point in heavy syrup and pack at once into hot jars. Process 20 minutes in hot water bath, 15 minutes in oven at 275 degrees F. and 10 minutes at ten pounds pressure in pressure cooker.

Cherries

Remove pits, add 1 cup sugar to each quart of fruit and bring to the boiling point. Pack hot and process 10 minutes in hot water bath and 30 minutes in oven at 275 degrees F.

Count the time for processing in the hot water bath after the water begins to boil the second time. The boiling will be checked when the jars of fruit are put into the canner.

Caspian Girl Describes 4-H Camp at Lansing

Angeline Polich of Caspian, Mich., writing to George Harvey, secretary of the 1932 Upper Peninsula State Fair, in appreciation of the Michigan tour given 4-H club champions, describes the 4-H camp at East Lansing, in her letter, which follows:

"Dear Mr. Harvey,

"I am one of the girls who have just returned from a tour of lower Michigan. I understand that this tour was sponsored by the Upper Peninsula State Fair and wish to thank all who made it possible for us.

"Our tour took in the 4-H camp at East Lansing, which we were all eager to visit. It differed from our camp considerably as far as sleeping and eating quarters are concerned. Also the group there was much larger than we have at our camp. We were very much pleased to be able to be at camp for "Fun Night" for we enjoyed watching the club boys and girls participate so eagerly in the different games and stunts.

"We also had the opportunity to visit the girls' classes. We heard a very fine demonstration given by Miss Gilmore. Her subject was "Care of the Hands" and I am sure all the girls attending appreciated the demonstration. Miss Brady's singing and Miss James' accompaniments were also enjoyed. The same night we attended a dinner and a play. This seemed to be a big night at camp. The actors taking part in the play were really skillful and I have never seen a play acted so cleverly.

"Before reaching East Lansing we stopped at Battle Creek and visited the well-known Kellogg plant. We were served lunch and later on were shown about by a guide. It was all very interesting and educational.

"Once again I wish to thank everyone who made it possible for our group to enjoy the tour we have taken.

"And Iron County 4-H Member
"Angeline Polich.

NAME OFFICERS OF INSTITUTE

Rev. Clifford of Marquette Elected Institute Dean

The Rev. F. J. Clifford of Marquette was chosen as dean of the Epworth League Institute during the election of officers held last Friday while the 12th annual institute was in progress at Lake Michigamme. He succeeds the Rev. H. W. Colenso of this city who has held the post for the past three years. The latter was not a candidate for the position this year, Rev. Colenso remains as an institute trustee.

Other institute officers named are:

Dean of Men, Rev Elmer Pierce of Champion.

Deans of Women, Mesdames W. Lovejoy of Stephenson and Arthur Smith of Iron River.

Purchasing Agent, Rev. Percy Lomas of Newberry.

Treasurer, Rev. Frank Carey of Calumet.

Business Manager, Rev. Walter Firth of Ironwood.

Dining Room Manager, Mrs. Walter Firth, Ironwood.

Historian, Rev. Henry Rogers of Mohawk.

Life Work Secretary, Rev. Geo Brown of Iron Mountain.

Two other institute officers, the superintendent of grounds and the recreational director, will be appointed later by District Superintendent Joseph Dutton of Marquette.

During the polling, the Rev. Arthur Smith of Iron River was elected president of the upper peninsula Epworth leagues, succeeding Rev. Closson of Hancock who has headed the leagues for the past three years.

Local Chapter To Be Represented At District Meeting

A number of members and the three ranking officers of Minnewasca Chapter will attend the meeting of the Cloverland District association of Eastern Stars being held in Escanaba today and tomorrow. They are expected to return to Gladstone this evening.

62 MEN BATTLE FOREST BLAZES

Fire Fighters Transported to Rock Area by Truck

Sixty-two men were yesterday morning transported by truck from here to the Beaver branch to battle forest blazes between Beaver and Rock. Although not relieved until a late hour last night, the men will be returned to the scene early this morning unless rain relieves the situation.

Fair progress in fighting the blazes has been made and even though the much sought rain is not forthcoming control should be gained in the Beaver-Rock section within another day, it was stated.

Members of the Civilian Conservation Corps at Garth, numbering approximately 180, were yesterday transferred from the Rock area to the vicinity of Waucedah where the fire was reported to be more serious.

According to reports there are eight individual blazes of considerable size running from the vicinity of Waucedah north-easterly to Foster City and on to Mashek and Northland and then over eastward towards Rock.

A blaze of some size gained headway on the Stonington peninsula almost directly due east of Squaw Point where heavy clouds of black smoke were rolling skyward.

Beauty Treatments Improve Looks Of Fernwood Cemetery

As the result of work done by city workmen, the general appearance of Fernwood cemetery is considerably improved, and if the beautification treatment is continued, as is the present intention of the city administration, the improvement will be more or less permanent.

In past years, many of the lots were municipally cared for but the number dwindled greatly during the depression, and the burial ground on a whole presented an unkempt appearance.

Last fall a number of unemployed were placed to work there leveling off about 50 lots which were above the average grade. Lately men with scythes were put to work and weeds and grass were cut on every lot and at every portion of the cemetery needing it. Lots and other parts are also being leveled so that the caretaker can operate the power driven mower over the entire area and keep it presentable.

Minnewascans Will Receive Instruction

A school of instruction for members of Minnewasca Chapter, Order of Eastern Stars, will be held this afternoon in the Masonic hall. Attending the school and instructing tifose present will be Selma A. Brown of Birmingham, Mich., worthy grand matron of the grand chapter of Michigan. The session will open at 1:30 p. m. and the presence of every officer and member is anticipated. A social hour will follow the work.

Swedes Win Sixth Straight Victory, Beat Veneers, 6-3

Scoring six runs on seven hits and a half dozen assorted errors the Swedes won their sixth straight victory of the second half season at the expense of the Veneers Monday evening. The score was 6-3. It was the fifth defeat of the Veneers during the last half.

Van De Weghe and Sword were in fair form, each allowing but seven hits, but the former had little support behind him. The Swedes garnered their first brace of runs without the necessity of a hit. The Veneers came back to go into the lead in the second stanza and remained there until the fourth when the Swedes deadlocked it at 3-all, and then pushed 3 more tallies across in the fifth to sew up the game.

Score by innings:

Swedes	2	0	0	1	3	0	0	6	7	1
Veneers	1	2	0	0	0	0	0	3	7	6

Batteries: Sword and Swan; Van De Weghe and Wm. Skellenger, Jr.

Umpires: Kegel and Bovin.

800 Enjoy Outing Of Peninsula Club

Approximately 800 persons attended the first annual picnic of the Peninsula club at Riverside park Sunday when former Garden peninsula residents now living in this vicinity spent a pleasant day in recounting old experiences and adventures. A large delegation of residents from Garden, Van's Harbor, Fairport and Fayette took advantage of the invitation to attend the outing.

Hours from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. were spent in lunching and general conversation, following which the W. O. W. band presented several fine concert numbers. Mayor Harry Eriksen then delivered a brief address of welcome and inspiring talks were given by Rev. B. J. P. Schevers, pastor of the St. Francis de Sales church, and by Joseph Mercier, president of the club.

Included in the recreation program was an elimination series of well-played and exciting soft ball games between teams from four communities of the Garden peninsula, Van's Harbor, Fairport, Garden, and Fayette, the Fairport team winning the championship in the final game by defeating Garden 7-4. In the preliminaries, three-inning contests, Garden defeated Fayette by a score of 3-2, while Fairport won from Van's Harbor, 4-2.

Officers of the Peninsula club praised the services of the W. O. W. band, and city and county officials who helped to make the picnic a success.

Fords Defeat Oils 17-8 To Win Fifth Straight Victory

Scoring at least two runs in every inning except the second and the seventh and punching over six runs on eight hits in the first frame, the Fords maintained their perfect record for the second half of the season Monday evening by defeating the Sinclair Oils, 17-8.

The game was a slugging contest from start to finish as pitchers' offerings were pounded all over the lot. The Fords slugged out 17 hits to 14 for the Oils, making a total of 31 bingles in the contest. Schuster and Williams were the starting hurlers for the Fords and Oils, respectively.

Barnes led the Ford's attack with four straight hits including a home run, while Gage and Schuster also helped the Ford cause with three safeties apiece. McNally, with three hits, was the star on offense for the Oils, while Malloy contributed with a circuit clout.

Clude Hutt, star Ford infielder, sustained a broken bone in the back of his right hand in attempting to tag out a Ford runner at second base after taking a throw from the outfield. The runner crashed into him, and Hutt was injured in the mix-up. He continued to play, however, but an X-ray taken yesterday morning revealed a broken bone.

BLISTER RUST IS BIG MENACE

Crews to Eradicate Wild Currants, Gooseberries to Protect Nursery

The State Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the United States Forestry Service is beginning work this week to protect the white pine nursery as well as pine throughout Schoolcraft county from blister rust, a serious menace to native white pine. Blister rust is a plant disease which is caused by the growth of a parasitic fungus within the bark of white pine and in the leaf tissues of all currant and gooseberry bushes.

The disease attacks only those pines which have their leaves "needles"—in clusters of five and makes its appearance in the form of "flags" on the tree which are dead limbs killed by blister rust. It works down the larger branches finally reaching the trunk which it girdles, thus killing the tree.

Fortunately, blister rust cannot spread from one pine to another without first going through currant or gooseberry leaves. Therefore, it has been demonstrated that if all such plants are removed, the disease can be controlled. The nature of the fungus requires two alternate hosts in order to flourish and spends part of its life cycle on the leaves of currants and gooseberries before attacking the pine. It is transmitted by means of minute seed-like structures called spores which are blown about by the wind or carried by currents of air.

The spores appear on currant leaves during mid-summer and are readily distinguished by brown hair-like growths on the under side of the leaf. All currants and gooseberries are susceptible to the disease but by far the most dangerous and the one which accounts for the long-distance spread and establishment of the disease is the European cultivated black currant, (Ribes Nigrum, L.). Therefore, the State, by Public Act No. 313, 1929, outlawed the black currant and forbids its growth in Michigan. It has been declared a public nuisance and planting, possessing, or in any way propagating such plants has been prohibited. The state feels justified in making the law in as much as the value of the white pine in Michigan far exceeds the value of black currants.

The future value of the young pine already growing must be estimated in terms of national necessity rather than money and the Department of Agriculture appeals to all currant owners to cooperate in consideration of the general public as well as the personal benefit derived therefrom by destroying all such plants. Blister rust threatens the future of the white pine forests. Black currants accelerate the advance of the disease. Michigan can do without them better than it can suffer the blister rust losses due directly to their cultivation.

During the next few weeks, crews will be eradicating all wild currants and gooseberries within 1,500 feet of the nursery and to insure complete protection, all cultivated black currants will be removed from the city of Manistique and Schoolcraft county. Every yard and garden in Manistique as well as every farm in the county will be inspected by the agent working in this territory.

Several counties in Upper Michigan have been eradicated of all black currants and the department feels assured that the people of Schoolcraft county will lend their hearty cooperation and support to this worth while and necessary campaign. The public work is in charge of W. Maner, General Delivery, Manistique. For further information or particular write J. Kroeber, 1119 South 8th avenue, Escanaba.

Large Delegation from County Competing at Chatham Station

Nineteen boys and girls, 4-H club members in Schoolcraft county, left Monday morning to attend Camp Shaw at the Upper Peninsula Experiment Station at Chatham. They will be in attendance at camp during the week, returning Saturday afternoon.

Those attending from the Double M 4-H Canning club at Thompson are: Marion Squires, Dorothy Sample, Carmen DeSautle, Isabelle Hoholik, Ingrid Nelson and Linnea Carlson. There are also three girls from the clothing club groups the past winter who were county champions in clothing projects. They are: Betty Orr of Manistique, who was county honor champion in second year clothing work; Lucille Stites of Blaney, the other county honor champion in clothing work for second year girls; and Theresa Hamblen of Blaney, who was county honor champion in second year work and also style champion; and, Donna Hubble of Manistique, who was county honor champion in clothing club work for fourth year work.

The boys who are attending camp from Manistique are: Maurice Hubble, Edward Peck, Dick Buruse and Fritz Buruse; from Gulliver, Ruben Johnson; and from Inwood township, John Tanguay, John Plante, Hugh Kelly and Eddie Williams.

LARGER ARMY, NAVY NEEDED

Major Humbert in Talk to Rotes Advocates Preparedness

Speaking on the subject of "National Defense," Major George F. Humbert, of the Coast Artillery Corps, delivered an illuminating talk to local Rotarians Monday noon, advocating greater army and naval strength as the best means of keeping peace.

"The United States is hopelessly behind in naval preparedness and land forces," declared Major Humbert. "The army is undermanned and the navy is not up to strength. We have always been unprepared for war and this lack of preparation has cost us much in men and money. After every war in which this country has participated we have resolved to keep up the strength of our fighting forces, but the attitude of the public and politicians has always run counterwise to this policy."

It is Major Humbert's opinion that the United States should at least build its navy up to the 5-5-3 treaty in which England and the United States are limited to 500,000 tons and Japan to 300,000 tons. He expressed his belief that Secretary of the Navy Swanson's new building program is inadequate and that we should have a navy second to none.

That strong armaments are the most effective agencies toward the promotion of world peace, was the opinion of Major Humbert. "We (army officers) do not want war any more than do our citizens, but we do believe in preparedness," declared the speaker. He commended the National Defense Act and said "A strong United States and a strong Great Britain would keep the peace of the world for 100 years."

Major Humbert, who is now district commander of the Sixth Corps Area, Forestry District No. 7, which includes eight forestry camps in the upper peninsula, is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. He later transferred to the army.

Following his address Major Humbert answered numerous questions put to him by members of the Rotary club and disclosed many interesting bits of information relative to the military units which have never appeared in print.

Dinner Party

Miss Henrietta Hoholik was hostess at a delightful dinner party at her home, 311 South Cedar street, Saturday evening. Dinner was served at 6 o'clock with covers laid for twenty-eight guests. Decorations were prettily arranged with garden flowers, place cards and favors following a patriotic color scheme of red, white and blue.

Out-of-town guests at the party included Misses Jane Vezina and Betty Earle, of Blaney; Miss Jane Voorhis, of Detroit, who is visiting at Blaney; Miss Harrietta Heltman and brother, William, of Cleveland; Bruce Waddell of Chicago; Robert Meade of Menominee; Earl Anderson of Detroit; and Joshua Oden, Jr., of Chicago.

Herman Haas Rites Are Held Yesterday

Final rites were held Monday afternoon from the Congregational church at Garden for Herman Haas, pioneer resident of that community who passed away early Saturday morning from internal injuries received about a month ago when he was kicked by a cow. Rev. H. H. Heafield conducted the services and interment was made in the Garden cemetery. The deceased had operated a farm at Garden for more than 40 years.

Mr. Haas was born at Sheboygan, Wis., July 3, 1864, and moved to Garden at an early age. He had been engaged in farming during the greater part of his life.

Besides the widow he is survived by five sons, Howard, Walter, Homer, William, and Elmer; a daughter, Mrs. Ed (Ida) Paulson; two brothers, August of Sheboygan, and Henry, of Portland, Ore., and three sisters, all residing in Sheboygan.

Sales Tax Blanks May Be Received From W. B. Thomas

Any person, company, corporation, or firm, in Schoolcraft county liable for an accounting of the Michigan sales tax and have not received the necessary blanks on which the July report should be sent in to Lansing, can obtain them from W. B. Thomas, secretary of the Manistique chamber of commerce, according to information received yesterday.

Owing to a shortage, several business establishments in the county were unable to obtain the blanks prior to this time. The necessary blank reports were rushed here this week. All retailers are urged to have their reports in the mail in sufficient time in order that they will be in Lansing by August 15 as the law provides.

Hiawatha Man Pleads Guilty To Gas Thefts

James Goodar, of Hiawatha township, yesterday morning pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny when arraigned before Justice W. G. Stephens and was given a 30-day sentence in the county jail and placed on six months probation. Goodar will be compelled to serve five days of the 30-day sentence and will serve the remaining 25 days if he breaks probation.

Goodar was arrested on a complaint brought by Russell Leonard who charged that the former took gasoline from his car which was parked near a dance hall in Manistique township Sunday evening.

Family Fight Goes To Circuit Court

William Morrow, charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than the crime of murder, was bound over to circuit court by Justice W. G. Stephens. He was arraigned Monday afternoon. Morrow is still in custody at the county jail pending efforts to obtain two surety bonds of $500 each.

Complaint against Morrow was made by his wife, Ida Morrow, who suffered a fractured jaw and swollen and discolored features as the result of a fight between the two early Sunday morning.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Throwing off some of its recent somnolence, the stock market roused itself today to get up and take a look at the sun.

The experience proved to be tonical, for prices advanced 1 to around 3 points. Volume rose, too, as compared with the desultory behavior of yesterday's colorless session, although there was no particularly cogent reason advanced by Wall Street to account for the somewhat livelier tune tapped off by the ticker. Trading was largely professional.

At the sound of the closing gong, transfers stood at 1,240,124 shares. The Associated Press-Standard Statistics composite covering 90 selected stocks showed an advance of 2.7.

Purchasers looked with particular favor today on shares of gold, motor and alcohol companies, although prime names in the industrial list had their innings too.

In the docket of news developments, the item which particularly interested Wall Street was the conference of the administration's future fiscal policies. Thus far, the financial community recalled, the president has made no attempt to use any of the unprecedented powers over money granted him under the inflation bill.

General Motors' report, showing July sales, was read with satisfaction by the Street's business experts, who were also impressed with the insistent efforts of the recovery administration to pacify the turbulent spirits in the Pennsylvania coal district.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Aug. 8—Fluctuating nervously, wheat prices here made a last minute quick recovery today from skidding that accompanied New York cotton market weakness and Winnipeg wheat quotations unsettlement.
The sudden rally of wheat values at the last indicated to pit observers that the market was in an oversold condition. Earlier, wheat at times showed decided strength parallel with reports that President Roosevelt and various economic advisers were to discuss the commodity dollar, and that a major development in administration currency plans appeared probable.
Wheat closed irregular, ½ off to 3-8 up compared with yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to 7-8 down, oats at ½ decline to 3-8 advance, and provisions showing 7 to 20 cents setback.
Corn was dragged down by late reports of more liberal offerings to arrive from rural sources. Outs receipts showed signs of diminishing.
Provisions reflected chiefly the weakness of cotton.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE
New York, Aug. 8—Foreign exchange steady. Great Britain in dollars, others in cents. Great Britain demand, 4.47½; cables, 4.47½; 60-day bills, 4.46; France demand, 5.31, cables, 5.31; Italy demand, 7.12½, cables, 7.12½.

BY VICTOR EUBANK
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—The bond market felt a little better today, although prices, as a whole, were unable to get anywhere in particular.

The sales volume stepped up to $10,070,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate issues was unchanged at 80.9.

While both the industrial and utility groups lagged moderately, secondary carrier lists reflected both sympathy with rallying stocks and further optimistic freight car loading reports which indicated there might be few important seasonal traffic declines.

Among the more active utilities and industrials, up around a point or more, were maturities of American Smelting, International Hydro-Electric, International Telephone, Postal Telegraph and Warner Bros. Bonds of North American and Bethlehem Steel were a trifle heavy.

United States government listed securities were fairly firm and a bit more active than recently.

Foreign obligations were irregular and quiet. Issues of Berlin City, Greek government, France and Great Britain were up fractionally to about 3 points. The Argentines and Japanese were off a point or more.

Curb Mart Follows Big Board In Rise

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—The curb market followed the pattern of the big board on a quiet upward trek today.

Moderate accumulation of leading issues which increased in the late dealings, to advance prices fractions to around 2 points, represented mostly professional transactions.

Utilities presented the firmest front at the close. Gains of around 2 points being recorded in Electric Bond and Share, Columbia Gas & Electric preferred, and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore.

An early spurt in the alcohol division was reduced in the late dealings. Hiram Walker halved an advance of nearly 4 points. Canadian Industrial Alcohol A and Distillers Corporation-Seagrams showed gains of about a point.

Oils were generally firm, Gulf advancing 2½ while Standard Oil of Indiana and Humble improved sizeable fractions. Pan American Airways rose 2¾ points while various issues gaining a point or more included Newmont, Aluminum Company of America, Dow Chemical and Pittsburgh Plate Glass. Transfers approximated 224,000 shares compared with 188,000 for Monday.

POWERS

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dettman and two children of Marinette visited over Sunday at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. E. Fezatte. Mrs. Dettman and children are remaining for a longer visit, while Mr. Dettman returned to his home Monday morning. He was accompanied on his return by Miss Esther Koehn who has spent several days at Tom Kell home at Wilson.

A large number of friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McNeely attended their wedding dance at "4 corners" Saturday evening.

Claude Corrigan who is stationed at Sault Ste. Marie in the Reforestation work returned Monday to camp after a 3 day's furlong spent at his home.

We are to have another store in the village of Spalding, in the Beatson store building. The new proprietor is to open the store within the next few weeks or as soon as a large plate glass window can be replaced. The window was broken when a large truck struck a stone, in passing the store, and sent the stone through the glass. The stone, less than 2 inches in diameter, was picked up inside the window.

Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Kahrs and daughter Betael are spending their vacation in Two Rivers and Algoma, Wis. Rev. Kahrs will also attend the Wisconsin Synod in Milwaukee.

Miss Mabel Tesch and brother Art of Milwaukee are visiting at the home of their aunt and uncle, Mr and Mrs. Chas. Behrend.

Mrs. Edna Corrigan and children are visiting at the Ed. Corrigan home in Manistique.

Mrs. Elizabeth Girard, daughter Miss Mary have returned from an extended visit with relatives and friends in Chicago and Toledo. They attended A Century of Progress while in Chicago.

Misses Isobel and Ruth Jenkins of Milwaukee are visiting at the home of their mother Mrs. E. Jenkins.

Jack Jackson of Republic spent the week end with friends.

HEAVY INCREASE IN ORE SHIPPING

July Total at Escanaba Docks Far Ahead of Last Season

An increase of 2,790,901 tons over July of 1932 is reported in ore shipments from upper lake ports for the month of July, 1933. The total tonnage of shipments for July this year, as reported by the Lake Superior Iron Ore Association, was 3,430,785 tons, bringing the total for the 1933 season up to 5,695,798 tons, as compared with only 1,028,349 tons shipped up to Aug. 1 last year.

During the month of July this year the Escanaba docks accounted for

Transcontinental Bicycle Racers Here Tonight

HUGE PROGRAM AT FAIR TRACK

Anderson and Bolger to Compete in Special Race Event

BULLETIN

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 8 (AP)—Ewald Wissell, German rider, led the transcontinental bicycle racers into Sault Ste. Marie late tonight with William (Torchy) Peden of Victoria, B. C., close behind. The riders left Sudbury, Ont., for the Soo at 5:45 a. m. and made fast time under a blazing sun.

The $25,000 marathon bicycle race, the first event of its kind ever staged on the American continent, will advance as far west as Escanaba today, as the cyclists from various parts of the world complete another lap in this community.

The pedalers will leave Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., early this morning and will arrive at the Upper Peninsula State Fairgrounds about 7 o'clock this evening. Prior and after their arrival, an interesting athletic entertainment program will be presented.

Big Athletic Show

The last 10 miles of the bicycle race lap will be run off on the fairgrounds track. In addition, there will be a 10-mile foot race between seven world-famous stars, including Pete Gavuzzi, who took part in C. C. Pyle's bunion derby in 1929. Other runners entered are: August Fager, Sweden; Dan Hoey, Ireland; Sammy Richmond, Los Angeles; Felix Forget, Paris; Leo Tessier, Montreal; and Bobby Dufour, Boston.

Rudy Eisenberg of Berlin will amuse the crowd with a 15-minute trick bicycle act, while "Daredevil" Trudeau will stage his death-defying feat on a speeding motorcycle.

Anderson vs. Bolger

A local attraction has been added to the program. Martin C. Anderson and Edward F. Bolger, 67-year-old bicycle racers of early days, will again essay to show their speed on the pedals. Back 35 years ago, Anderson won many trophies in upper Michigan and Wisconsin racing events. He also participated in the memorable race against the fastest race horse in the upper peninsula, losing by a narrow margin. P. A. Johnson, another veteran Escanaba cyclist, is also thinking seriously of getting into the contest.

Bicycle Parade

To publicize tonight's big event a parade of boys and girls on bicycles is planned for 2 o'clock this afternoon on Ludington street. All children are invited to take part. The riders having the 10 best decorated bikes will each receive a Delft theater ticket.

About one hundred and forty persons are included in the marathon caravan that will arrive this evening. There is an ambulance, following the cyclists in case of accidents and injuries, a rolling kitchen; and also another truck which has been transformed into a bicycle repair shop.

The racers will stay overnight here, and will depart tomorrow on their westward trip through Iron Mountain, Ironwood, Duluth, then back to Chicago and Montreal, completing the 4300-mile marathon on September 3. The transcontinental bicycle race will be a Soldier's Field attraction of a Century of Progress Exposition.

The Kiwanis club is sponsoring the U. P. State Fairgrounds' program. The club will also send one person to Montreal, with expenses paid, to see the finish of the race on September 3.

Mitchell's Sloop Wins At Ephriam

The sloop "Ghost," owned by John Mitchell of Escanaba, won the Ephriam Yacht club's regatta Saturday afternoon, defeated the Viva of Ephiam by four minutes on the six-mile triangular course.

Mr. Mitchell, accompanied by Bill Karas, Bud Reau and Cyril Johnson, returned from the regatta late Monday night.

The "Ghost" arrived too late to enter the main race Saturday morning, but the racing committee arranged a run-off event for the evening, with the "Ghost" pitted against the Viva, winner of the morning race, and the Jibgu, a neat, speedy sloop from Menominee. The Jibgu was 10 minutes behind the winner. The "Ghost" now flies the E. Y. C. pennant, emblematic of the 1933 Ephriam regatta championship.

Brooklyn Defeats New York Giants In 13 Innings, 1-0

Brooklyn, Aug. 8 (AP)—In a pitchers' battle between Ray Benge and Hal Schumacher, an eleventh-inning error by Johnny Vergez today gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a 1 to 0 decision over the league leading New York Giants. The defeat reduced the Giants' margin over the idle Pirates to three agmes.

Benge held the Giants to three hits while his teammates got to Schumacher for nine but the young right hander was effective with men on the bases except in the eleventh. Two of the hits off Benge were made by Schumacher, the other by Hughie Critz.

Score by innings:

New York	000 000 000 00—0 3 1
Brooklyn	000 000 000 01—1 9 1

Schumacher and Mancuso; Benge and Lopez.

Children's Bike Parade to Start At 2 P. M. Today

All boys and girls wishing to compete in the bicycle parade this afternoon are asked to congregate at the corner of Ludington and Seventeenth streets at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Jack Floyd, district Scout commissioner, and a group of Boy Scouts will line up the parade and look after other details.

The ten boys or girls who have the most attractive or comical decorated bicycles will be awarded each a ticket to the theatre.

Grove Beats Boston In Thriller, 7 to 6

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (AP)—Lefty Grove found the Boston Red Sox troublesome today, but managed to hold them in check while his teammates were connecting for extra base blows to give the Athletics a 7 to 6 triumph.

Jimmie Foxx's 32nd homer and four-base blows by Mickey Cochrane and Doc Cramer accounted for five runs. Cochrane's double in the first and Bob Johnson's two bagger in the third sent in the remainfng scores.

Grove, appearing for the first time since breaking the Yankees shutout streak won his 17th game.

Medalist Erased In Women's Tourney

Chicago, Aug. 8, (AP)—Surprising finishes that resulted in the defeat of the qualifying medalist and the collapse of other favorites, marked the first round play in the women's western golf championship at Oak Park Country club today.

Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., whose 79 gave her the honors of the qualifying round was removed from championship consideration by Mrs. Melvin Jones, of Chicago, western champion in 1921, in a spirited match which went to the eighteenth green before the Chicago contender won, 1 up.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, the defending champion, also had a shaky time, before she was able to dispose of Mrs. Austin Pardue of Minneapolis, the Minnesota champion, 1 up. Their match also was decided on the eighteenth green.

FIGHT POSTPONED

New York, Aug. 8. (AP)—The eight round bout between Hans Birkie, German heavyweight, and Abe Feldman of New York, scheduled for tonight at Fugazy Bowl, Coney Island, was postponed to Thursday because of threatening weather late today.

CHICAGO CUBS LICK DEAN, 4-2

Bruins Even Score With Hurler Who Whiffed 17 Last Sunday

Chicago, Aug. 8 (AP)—Chicago's Cubs, who last week assisted Dizzy Dean to a new major league record by striking out 17 times, today avenged themselves to the extent of defeating the St. Louis Cardinal ace, 4 to 2, in the opening game of their series.

Handicapped by a wrist injury suffered at Pittsburgh last week, Dean was still able to fan five batsmen, but the Cubs, headed by Kiki Cuyler and Gabby Hartnett, punched the tall right-hander for eight hits, one more than the Cardinals were able to collect off Charlie Root.

Favorites Easily Win At Charlevoix

Charlevoix, Mich., Aug. 8 (AP)—All favorites advanced with ease today, more by defaults than by matches actually played, as the Michigan Riviera tennis championships finally got underway after a day's delay caused by rain.

Jack Harris, of Chicago, defending champion, after drawing a bye in the first round, breezed through the second round by eliminating Bus Strnad, of Detroit, 6-1, 6-1.

Walter T. Hayes, Chicago, another seeded player, advanced through the first round by default, while Max Gurman, of Grand Rapids, also a member of the seeded list, won a love victory over L. W. Bowen, Detroit, in the first round.

Two Stars Fall In Tennis Tournaments

Culver, Ind., Aug. 8 (AP)—Two stars fell by the wayside and several others had narrow escapes in advanced rounds of play for the national junior and boys tennis championships here today.

Frank Rericha, New York, one of the strongest contenders for the junior title was eliminated by Russell Ball, El Paso, 2-6, 6-3, 8-6 in one upset.

William Fay of Pittsburgh considered a real threat in the boys competition fell before the stroking of Seymour Greenburg, Chicago, a little fellow who is beginning to make players and gallery alike watch him galavant on the courts. The score was 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Ex-Baseball Greats of Escanaba to Play City Team on Sunday

Memories of the torrid baseball battles of a decade or more ago in Escanaba will be revived at the state fairgrounds Sunday afternoon when the Old Timers, baseball players whose names were blazoned across the sport sheets in years past, will meet the Escanaba city team in a novelty game which promises a world of enjoyment for the fans.

R. B. Stack, an old time Escanaba baseball pitcher whose mound feats are legendary in baseball circles of the peninsula, is in Escanaba now and will throw the first ball at the game between the Old Timers and the city team. Stack's burning speed a score of years ago was the despair of all the teams in the circuit.

Included among the list of veterans who will get into action for the old timers are Ernie Burke, Dr. J. J. Walch, John J. Bartelia, Fred Olmsted, Cully Lantz, Dutch Flath, Mike Walch, John Moberg, Red Murray, Augie Van Effen, George Hirn, Dr. Ed and Dr. Fred Hirn, Dr. Gordon Gleich, Ching Flath, Rudy Arnson, Bud Kessler, Tom Gannon and Pete Derouin. In addition Ike Schram who scored all the games for the Escanaba baseball teams during the heyday of the sport here will be on hand with his old scorebook to chalk up the runs, hits and errors Sunday and Jake Bink, another veteran, will call the balls and strikes.

Pete Derouin who cavorted at third base for the old Escanaba ball clubs many seasons will be manager and captain of the Old Timers against the city team. Murray Boyle whose name likewise is linked with the baseball teams of a decade past will manage the city team. Boyle organized the city team this year and has made a valiant and successful effort to keep baseball alive in this city at a time when the national sport was on the verge of being eclipsed in popularity in this city by its baby brother, diamondball.

With real baseball gradually finding itself in this city once more, it is believed that this game between all the former greats and the present up and coming stars will be a supreme factor in placing the national pastime back in its proper sphere as the popular summer sport in Escanaba.

Manager Derouin, Pete to the thousands of local baseball lovers who rooted themselves hoarse for the Escanaba club way back when, said yesterday that his boys are taking the kinks out of the old souphones now and will be "in the pink" for the battle with the "kids" Sunday afternoon.

Asked if the old timers were practicing plays for this game, Pete responded, "Why, no. You see we're saving ourselves for the game."

REVOLTA NEAR TOP WITH 139

M. Dutra and Hines Lead PGA Qualifiers With Score of 138

BY PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 8 (AP)—Leading a par-shelling brigade that shattered all field qualifying records to bits, Mortie Dutra, older brother of the defending title holder, and Jimmy Hines, from the Timber Points club, New York, came in with sensational finishes today to tie for the national professional golf championships medal with 36 holes totals of 138 shots.

So furious was the assault over the short but tricky Blue Mound country club course that eight players, among them Gene Sarazen, shot sub-par scores ranging from Dutra's 66 to a half dozen 68's and when the shelling ended, a new record low score of 146 was required to place among the 31 who will open the struggle for the championship tomorrow against Olin Dutra over the 36 hole match play route. No playoff for extra positions in the qualifying bracket was necessary.

Out of the field of 93 starters, only four important figures in the world of professional golf failed to qualify despite the brilliant scoring. Eddie Schultz, who burned up the championship course in sectional tryouts at Troy, N. Y.; Jimmy Foulis of Chicago, St. Paul open champion; Billy Burke, 1931 national open title holder, and Ralph Guldahl, runnerup in the 1933 national open at North Shore, composed the quartet which missed. Six other Ryder cup players made the grade, Burke being the only one to fail.

Revolta Shoots 139

To Mortie of the Dutra golfing family went the honor of individual par blasting today as perfect weather, fairly cool and minus wind, prevailed. Comfortably among the leaders with a morning round of 72, two over par, Mortie started his final round with a perfect 35 on the front nine and then levelled the incoming expanse with a sensational 31 for his 66 and a 138 shot total.

Dead pitch shots and six one-putt greens carried Dutra to the brilliant score than came within one stroke of tying the course record held by Francis Gallett, home club professional. After he returned to the clubhouse he dismissed all comment on his round by saying he didn't miss a shot.

Hines, a husky blonde who said he caught up with his game by drilling over the Timber Point course, one of the prize golfing layouts in golf for trouble, was consistently brilliant, shooting 36-34—70 in the morning and a pair of 34's for his 68 in the afternoon. Like Dutra, his prize shots were dead approaches that he stuck repeatedly around the pin for easy putts.

One shot behind Hines and Dutra as the medal play shooting ended was Johnny Revolta, 22 year old Menominee, Michigan star, who won his first pot of golf gold in the winter tournaments. Revolta shot 68 in the morning to land in a quadruple tie with Sarazen, Jack Curley of Quincy, Mass., and Victor Ghezzie, Rumson, N. Y., but like the other three couldn't keep up the pace. He finished with a 71 for a 36 hole total of 139.

Next in line were Sarazen, with rounds of 68-72 and the veteran, Willie Klein of New York, at 140. Gene was a trifle wild with his tee shots in the afternoon whereas Klein stuck even with par all day with a pair of 70.'s. Other low scorers were Al Houghton, Washington, D. C., 72-69—141; Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., 71-70—141; Ghezzie with 68-73—141; Tom Creavy of Albany, N. Y., 1931 champion, 74-68—142, and Frank Walsh, 1932 finalist, who wound up with rounds of 73-69—142.

DIAMOND BALL

K. OF C. NO. 2 DRUBS OILS

The K. of C. No. 2 and the Oils of the Old Timers' League played a post-season game on No. 3 diamond Monday evening, in which the K-C team trimmed the Oils to the tune of 13 to 6. Winchester, pitcher for the K-C team had them shut out until the sixth frame without a hit or a run, then eased up to let the Oils get six runs. Batteries: Oils, Nelson, Peterson and Kutchenberg; K-C, Winchester and Beaudin.

SENATORS WIN AT NEW YORK

5-1 Victory Puts Washington Two Games Ahead Again

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Combining timely hitting with Earl Whitehill's five-hit pitching, the Washington Senators today recouped half the lead they lost in a doubleheader, defeating the New York Yankees 5 to 1 in the third of the four-game series to increase their advantage to two full games.

With Whitehill holding the Yanks at bay in every inning, except the fourth, the Senators started their attack off Johnny Allen in the same frame, picking up two runs, one of them unearned. They added two more in the fifth when Buddy Myer followed Whitehill's single with a home run and got their final tally in the eighth as the result of Heinie Manush's circuit blow, hit with the bases empty.

U. P. Golf Tourney Opens At Iron Mt. Thursday Morning

Iron Mountain, Aug. 8 (Special)—With the receipt today of the first entries for the annual Upper Peninsula Amateur Golf association championship, to open at 7:30 a. m. Thursday, at the Pine Grove Country club here, plans for the event were taking definite shape, and a record enrollment for the three-day meet was indicated.

W. S. Cudlip, county clerk, who will be clerk of the course during the tournament, and Charles Swedberg, professional at Pine Grove, will meet tomorrow evening to schedule the various flights and draw the participating foursomes. That is no easy task, as each entry must be paired according to his handicap, and it is anticipated that at least 75 players, including the Pine Grove delegation, will be enrolled.

NEW CHAMP

Victory in the public links golf tournament has smiled on Charles Ferrera, 28-year-old San Francisco iron worker. Charley, winner of the national tournament in 1931, defeated Robert Lee Miller of Jacksonville, Fla., defending champion, in the recent tournament at Portland, Ore. The victor and his smile are shown above.

VINES' STATUS IS UNDER FIRE

Tennis Champ Welcomes Investigation, He Declares

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—H. Ellsworth Vines, Jr., 21 year old national champion and current storm-center of American tennis, today welcomed an official investigation of his amateur status, growing out of widely circulated reports that the lanky Californian will turn "pro" after the 1933 season.

"I think it is a good idea. It will save me denying rumors every day," Vines told the Associated Press, after being informed that Louis J. Carruthers, chairman of the amateur rule committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association, had started an investigation, to determine "all the facts" in connection with reputed inducements to Vines to forsake simon-pure ranks.

Vines explained that the only definite commercial offer he had received involved a proposition to manage a chain of sporting goods stores, with headquarters in New York City. He has no intention of following it up, he added, and insisted he had not talked with anyone since returning from Europe about the possibilities of "cashing in" by joining Big Bill Tilden or any other professional enterprise.

While Carruthers did not go into details as to the extent of his fact finding inquiry or even suggest what action, if any, his committee might consider, it was indicated the U. S. L. T. A. mainly was anxious to clear Vine's status before he tries for his third straight national singles championship in September.

BIG SIX STANDINGS

(By The Associated Press)

Bill Terry, New York Giants' manager, was the chief loser among baseball's Big Six yesterday, dropping five points as he went hitless before Ray Benge's effective pitching. His average of .351 sent him down to third place in the National League's half of the sextet as Chuck Klein and Virgil Davis remained idle.

In the American League trio, Al Simmons did not play but Jimmie Foxx lost one point while Heinie Manush gained one, boosting his batting average to 340. The standings:

FIVE QUALIFY FOR AMATEUR

Chuck Kocsis Leads Pack in District Trials at Detroit

Detroit, Aug. 8. (AP)—With Chuck Koksis, the perennial state champion, leading the pack two Detroiters, two players from western Michigan and a club mate of champion Ross (Sandy) Somerville, from London, Ont., qualified today in the Detroit district trials for the national amateur golf championship to be held Sept. 11-16 at Cincinnati.

A sub-par 70 on his afternoon round, coupled with a 73 on the morning round, on which almost all of the 18 contestants faltered badly, gave Kocsis a four stroke lead over Francis W. Ryan, the other Detroit qualifier.

The Canadian, John B. Nash, nearly blew his chance with an 81 on his morning round, but recovered to shoot a sub-par 71 in the afternoon and land in third place.

Ken Benkema, of Grand Rapids, qualified for the second year in a row with a 79 on his first round and a 75 on the second. William Duckwall, of Sturgis, Mich., completed the list of qualifiers with consistent rounds of 77 each.

Ed Flowers, Grand Rapids youth who once caddied for Al Watrous, missed out by inches. A ten-inch putt on the final green failed to drop and he ended up with a 155, just one stroke over Benkema's and Duckwall's 154's.

Guldahl Draws Johnny Goodman For His Caddy

Milwaukee, Wis. Aug. 8 (AP)—Officials of the national professional golf championship now in progress at the Blue Mound Country club, today decided that Ralph Guldahl of St. Louis didn't have to be reminded of Johnny Goodman this week.

When the draw was made for caddies, whom should Guldahl draw but a youngster with the same name as the famous Omahan, who beat him out by the shot for the national open last June at North Shore.

After a good laugh, another caddy was assigned to the job of carrying Ralph's clubs.

England, America Each Have 3 Left In Tennis Tourney

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—Three members of the visiting English Wightman cup tennis team which lost to the United States at Forest Hills last week, three American defenders and one entry from Canada reached the quarter final round of the women's singles in the eastern grass court tennis tournament today, while Sidney B. Wood, J. Gilbert Hall and John Van Ryn completed the third round brackets in the men's division.

Josephine Cruickshank of Santa Ana, Calif., Elizabeth Deike of Los Angeles, both seeded stars, and Freda James of Great Barrington, Mass., were left to represent the home forces. The English trio was Joan Ridley, 1932 finalist in the tourney, Dorothy Pound and Mary Heeley, who replaced Betty Nuthall after the latter withdrew and swamped Norma Taubelle of New York, 6-1, 6-2.

London police get a lot of trouble from careless persons; last year, in Brighton, a London suburb, 2100 business places were found insecurely closed by policemen on night patrol.

AUTO ACCIDENT PLAN OUTLINED

Wilcox Urges System of Traffic Injury Compensation

Advocating a plan of compensation for motor vehicle injuries as the obligation of the state, Fred M. Wilcox, Madison, Wis., for 20 years a member of the Industrial Commission of Wisconsin and now executive director of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work, addressed the afternoon session of the Kiwanis convention here yesterday.

Mr. Wilcox described his plan as one patterned along the lines of the industrial accident compensation systems, which have been adopted by virtually every state in the Union.

"There is no point of view that does not show the absolute lack of fitness of the present system for the motor accident field," Mr. Wilcox said. "It's sponsors cannot demonstrated that it is functioning in a manner that squares with decent regard for the rights of those most involved. It has in it nothing worth salvaging.

Workmen's Compensation

"Workmen's compensation was adopted not because of any theoretical preference for the principle of liability-without-fault but because it had become imperative to discard a system that was not measuring up to a fair estimate of social necessity and to substitute for it a system which gave promise of success. The wisdom of that action is now a matter of history.

Again the rights of man demand the abandonment of a system because of its unworthiness. We are just as much concerned with the consequences of death or disability with its train of distress and suffering when caused by a motor vehicle on the road as by the operation of a machine in the factory. The dead and injured in industry in 1911 when the first workmen's compensation laws were enacted was not over one-fourth the toll which street and highway traffic took the past year. Future experience will not better these figures materially. Congestion of streets and highways will hardly improve. If it does then auto traffic speeds up and pedestrians must run and dodge for safety zones or keep off the traveled way.

The Travelers Insurance Company is authority for the statement that in three-fourths of the country's automobile accidents in 1931 improper driving played an important part. In an analysis of the total of 34,000 deaths that year, 26,800 resulted from mishaps in which an error by drivers had taken place. This does not mean that others involved in these accidents were free from fault. In high percentages the neglect of others conspired to produce the end results. Of the 34,400 fatalities, 14,500 were pedestrians. Many of these were seriously at fault. Crossing in the middle of the block claimed 4,000 while 1,600 lost their lives when they appeared in the street from behind parked vehicles. The death of 2,300 pedestrians occurred as they walked along rural highways.

A review of the statistics on accident causes forces you to the conclusion that when you pour thousands of pedestrians into the public ways already occupied by thousands of passenger cars, trucks, street cars, motorcycles, and horse drawn vehicles, each with valid rights in these ways, each in control of some person or persons who at best may not be expected to choose the safest course in an emergency, it is too much to expect that accidents—many of them—will not occur. And a state which contemplates the exposure to danger which is in this set-up and forces the person who is exposed to these dangers to carry the burden of safe conduct on his part in every changing scene, as a condition precedent to his right to damage in case of injury, is setting up an unfair obligation and failing its people in their hour of extremity,—failing them just as we failed the injured industrial worker prior to 1911 and just as Arkansas, Florida, Mississippi and South Carolina are still denying protection to their injured employes.

Vehicle Should Bear Cost

"The power and speed of a motor vehicle out of the safest means of control is the principal cause of these accidents. The burden of economic loss traceable to these accidents should be placed on the motor vehicle. The owner should be required to assume his share in exchange for the great privilege that comes to him in the use of these public ways. The wide use of these power driven vehicles insures reasonable distribution of the load. The whole burden is now being borne, however, inequitably. It should be distributed as fire loss is distributed, that is by an insurance plan with question of fault eliminated.

"With the adoption of a compensation system there will come in addition to an equitable adjustment of the economic loss from these traffic injuries, prompt and inexpensive consideration of the claims by simple procedure, prompt payment, prompt medical and hospital care, relief of the courts, centralized and better accident statistics, impetus to the safety programs, elimination of the illegitimate user of the public ways and the adjustment of the insurance rates in keeping with experience as it is developed. Over all there will come the feeling that social justice is being reasonably approached.

With Wisconsin experience for 1932 showing 624 fatal accidents and Michigan 1,143, and each state producing approximately one hundred times as many non-fatal injuries, we should accept the necessity for development of this program as our task and go about it with genuine earnestness and a sincere determination to produce a plan that will bring a semblance of order and justice and economy out of the chaos we are in, proceeding all the way without prejudice against established interests and with a desire to make use of their service whenever and wherever it may be done without material hindrance to the fundamental purpose of the system itself."

150 Expected to Meeting of Medical Group

About one hundred and fifty persons are expected to attend the annual convention of the Upper Peninsula Medical society, which will be held in Escanaba Thursday and Friday.

Lecture sessions will be held on both days. On Thursday evening, the medical men will attend a stag party at Needham's cottage, following the banquet at the Delta hotel. A card party has been arranged for the women visitors.

Election of officers will be Friday morning, while in the afternoon the annual golf tournament will be held at the Escanaba Golf club.

Dr. Webster of Sault Ste. Marie is president of the Upper Peninsula Medical society. Dr. John J. Walch of Escanaba is vice-president, and Dr. A. J. Carlton, also of Escanaba, is secretary.

Byron did not conceive the story of Atalanta's race; it is contained in Greek mythology and mentioned by Ovid in his Metamorphoses.

RAGWEED WAR STARTED HERE

Want to Make Escanaba Haven for Hay Fever Sufferers

An appeal to Escanaba citizens to eradicate all signs of ragweed that they find about their premises was issued yesterday in the campaign to make this community an enjoyable haven for hay fever sufferers.

This is the season when hay fever victims from Illinois, Indiana and other central states come northward to seek relief. Escanaba has little ragweed, but it is desired that whatever there is of this obnoxious weed be torn up and destroyed since it aggravates the suffering of the hay fever addict.

GOVERNMENT AIDS

Washington (AP)—A campaign to strike at hay fever by eradicating ragweed, cause of 90 per cent of the cases of this affliction, has been inaugurated by the department of agriculture.

Goldenrod, once believed to be the cause of hay fever, has been absolved by the department. Its pollen is so sticky and heavy that it does not blow about as does ragweed pollen. There is little chance of getting goldenrod hay fever unless one comes in very close contact with the plant, the department says.

Ragweed, found in every state, is of two types—the common ragweed, which grows about two feet high, and the big ragweed, which may attain a height of eight to 10 feet.

Instead of fleeing to the mountains or elsewhere for relief, the department urges hay fever sufferers to concentrate on cutting down ragweed plants. This will reduce the amount of pollen in the air so that severe cases will be less virulent and those only mildly subject to infection may escape entirely.

Cutting ragweed twice a year is suggested: first, just before the flowers form, and second, before the flowers develop on the low-growing branches which shoot out after the first cutting.

If cutting is delayed until flower buds form, the pollen may develop after the weeds are cut, and burning the plants may be necessary. Cutting ragweeds along highways and on vacant lots in cities and suburbs is especially important, says the department.

After hanging in a Thundersley, Essex, church for 340 years, a bell was taken down in 1928 and dispatched for recasting to the same London firm which had cast it in 1588.

Communication

Predicts Russia's Recognition

August 6, 1933

To the Editor:

Isn't an appraisal of the merits and demerits of Soviet Russia in the communication column of your paper rather irrelevant inasmuch as the decisive and effective evaluation of that country's experiment lies in the minds of the world's leading statesmen and economists? One of these persons for example, Alfred Emanuel Smith, recently came out in the New York papers for immediate recognition of Russia.

Other such persons, the bankers of America, France, and England, since the week of July 10 according to AP and UP dispatches, have been competing against each other in loaning money to Russia. That week England resumed trade relations with Russia, and our RFC loaned between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000. These bankers know that Soviet Russia has never defaulted a cent of any debt incurred by herself, and even is willing in addition to pay the debts of the Kerensky government which it succeeded. On the other hand, England, France, Italy, and half a dozen more countries have defaulted in their legitimate debts to this country.

Mr. Editor, I think it is wasteful to occupy your columns refuting figures on Russia. Since that country is in a transitional state of hourly change, statistics are most unstable. Any theory from nut-cracking to crackingnuts can be today either proved or disproved in Russia with complete figures and graphs. It must be realized that a Thirteenth Century country can neither be smoothly nor completely transformed into a highly industrialized Twentieth Century state in 15 years.

At any rate, time will decide, and America's imminent recognition of Russia shall be one more hour glass.

Very sincerely yours,
Robert Gessner.

Escanaba Scouts Back From Camp

Several Boy Scouts of Escanaba have returned from Camp Harlow, near Marquette, where they attended the second period of the annual summer outing.

The following Escanaba Scouts received the "H" emblem, signifying they had been awarded the star camper rating: E. J. Fitzharris, Dale Vinette, John Pepin, Donald Holmer, Robert Anderson, Donald Campbell, Gordon Larson, Phil Westbrook, Norman Seymour, Leonard Peltier, Robert Olson, Warren Olson, Leslie Kallin, John Pearson, Irwin Sviland, Peter Reynolds, Ray McDonough and Francis Anzalone.

Peninsula Bakers Adopt Their Code

Marquette—A constitution, by laws and code of ethics were drawn up at a meeting of officers and directors of the Upper Peninsula Bakers' association held Saturday at the Hotel Northland. They will be offered to the membership for approval at a meeting to be held August 27 at Ishpeming.

Those attending the meeting were: Sherwin Overhold, Sault Ste. Marie, president; M. P. Nolingberg, Iron River, vice-president; William Larson, Marquette, treasurer; William Barker, Manistique, secretary, and W. A. Moffat, Houghton, Fred Hoyler, Escanaba, Louis Mueller, Manistique, and P. F. Frei, Marquette, directors.

St. Francis Hospital

Mrs. John Pavlat of Carney submitted to an operation for relief from appendicitis.

Mrs. Robert Porath, Escanaba Route One, is a medical patient.

Oliver Ducharme, Gladstone, Route One, was admitted.

Mrs. Michael Mickelson, Gladstone Route One, was admitted.

Mildred Cornell, Gladstone, submitted to an operation for relief from appendicitis Tuesday morning.

Rolland Deault of Masonville, employee of Jacob Alprovitz, is recovering from painful injuries received while at work.

Rev. Father John Mockler of St. Patrick's church is very weak and absolutely no visitors are permitted.

WHIFFEN WILL HEAD KIWANIS

Sheboygan Man Honored; Eau Claire Is 1934 Convention City

Eau Claire was selected as the 1934 convention city of the Wisconsin-Upper Michigan district of Kiwanis International at the closing session of the annual three-day convention yesterday.

Atty. Clarence F. Whiffen, Sheboygan, was elected district governor to succeed Alexander Wiley, Chippewa Falls on Jan. 1. Henry J. Rogers, Racine, was reelected district treasurer, and the district secretary will be appointed later by incoming Governor Whiffen.

Lieutenant governors were also elected for the various divisions of the district as follows: Forest Calway, Neillsville; Frank J. Horak, Oconto; Hugh J. Rooney, Plymouth; Richard E. Evans, Wauwatosa; Sam Pedrak, Ripon; T. H. Snodgrass, Monroe; Dr. C. E. Zellmer, Antigo; J. H. Wheelock, Viroqua; John S. Addison, Racine; Frank C. Berryman, Dodgeville; and Frank Blair, Iron Mountain.

Trophies were awarded to the outstanding clubs of the district yesterday afternoon. The Green Bay Kiwanis club won the prize for picture publicity; Madison, for convention attendance with 18 present; and Beaver Dam, for attendance and achievement.

Judge Graas Speaks

"If we neglect the children of today, they will fail tomorrow", declared Judge Henry Graas of Green Bay, in an inspiring address, defining Kiwanis' obligation toward the under privileged and handicapped youth of every community.

The greatest need of the times is for men, who are builders, and not the type that want to tear down everything, Judge Graas declared. The present day calls for clear vision, honesty and self-sacrifice in order that all men may live the abundant life, he added.

"The foundation stones of the New Deal call for honesty," Judge Graas continued. "Honest men are the requirements of today. We need honest politicians, honest merchants. The world needs honest, upright and stalwart men, whom money cannot buy, or else democracy is lost. The past has said that money is success, but the future will be builded upon righteousness."

Johns Called Home

Fred M. Wilcox of Madison spoke on the afternoon program. In his talk, he outlined his plan for the establishment of a motor vehicle accident compensation plan, modeled from the industrial compensation system.

Joshua L. Johns, international president of Kiwanis, did not speek at the morning session, as scheduled. He was called to Appleton late Tuesday night by the death of a relative.
